FOR NATIONAL DEFENSE—

Allied Forces, Southern Europe

BY ADM. ROBERT B. CARNEY, USN
Commander in Chief, Allied Forces Southern Europe

SACEUR's right flank is designated as Allied Forces Southern Europe. This NATO command is headed up by the writer as Commander-in-Chief Allied Forces Southern Europe.

In addition to the over-all command of Allied Forces Southern Europe, I also, for the present, command the Allied Naval Forces Southern Europe.

Maj. Gen. David M. Schlatter, U.S.A.F., is designated as the Commander Allied Air Forces Southern Europe. He controls the Italian air units assigned and Tactical Air Forces composed of Greek and Turkish units also report to him.

The method of handling the ground forces has recently undergone modifications made necessary by the admission of Greece and Turkey to NATO. There now are two land sectors within the Southern Europe Command. The first is Allied Land Forces Southern Europe under Lieutenant General Enrico Frattini of the Italian Army with Headquarters at Verona in the Po Valley. The second is Allied Land Forces Southeastern Europe, which will be commanded by Lt. Gen. Willard Wyman, USA. This latter command will have operational control of assigned ground forces in Greece and Turkey.

The forces assigned or earmarked for the South Europe command include Italian, Greek, and Turkish ground forces; the air forces from those countries; the U.S. Sixth Fleet and French and Italian Naval Forces. In accordance with the Lisbon Agreement the Naval Forces of Greece and Turkey remain under national command for the time being.

France and Italy have certain NATO maritime responsibilities in the Mediterranean which are discharged respectively by Vice Admiral Antoine Sala of the French Navy and Admiral Massimo Giosi of the Italian Navy. Admiral Sala has his Headquarters in Algiers and Admiral Giosi is established in Naples; both of these commanders report to the Commander, Allied Naval Forces Southern Europe in connection with their NATO functions and responsibilities.

The badge, or sleeve patch, of the Southern European command portrays

Army Promotes 196 To Maj., 185 To Capt.

Army officials late this week were completing arrangements for the release of the names of officers on the recommended lists to captain, major, lieutenant colonel and colonel. The likelihood is that the list for promotion to captain will be available for publication in next week's issue of The Journal.

It had been forecast that the Army would make this information available as soon as possible. The delay resulted undoubtedly from the necessity of analyzing the effects of the Davis Amendment. Now that this has been accomplished, publication of the lists will be implemented.

The Army this week released the names of 196 captains promoted to the temporary rank of major, and 185 first lieutenants advanced to temporary captain.

This raises to 394 the number of promotions this month to major and to 385 the number to captain.

During July, there were 195 promotions to captain and 198 to major—just about one-half the number of advancements to these ranks made during August.

The 196 promotions to major were announced in Special Orders No. 168 and are effective from 20 Aug. There were 53 Regular captains, 142 Reserve, and

First Air Force C.G.

Maj. Gen. Howard M. Turner has assumed command of the First Air Force, at Mitchel AFB, N. Y. General Turner comes to his new command from Tokyo, where he was a delegate to the UN command delegation for Korean Armistice negotiations.

33 Marines Selected For Regular Commissions

Secretary of the Navy Dan A. Kimball has approved the first interim report of a Marine Corps selection board which convened last month to select officers for integration into the Regular Marine Corps.

The report, which was signed by Mr. Kimball on 14 August, contains the names of two colonels, 28 lieutenant colonels, and eight Women Marines. In all, the board, headed by Maj. Gen. Walter W. Wensinger, will name about one thousand officers, plus a number of alternates, before it completes its work.

General Lemuel C. Shepherd, jr., estimated when the integration board first met late in June that it would "take about two months to do its work." It now appears that the selections may be completed by the end of this month. Publication of the final reports may not occur until mid-September, however, due to the time required to complete approval of each list.

The Integration Board, headed by Maj.

Living Cost Boost Aids Pay Raise Cost

The proposal for an adjustment in military pay to prevent further financial hardship received a powerful boost this week as the Bureau of Labor Statistics released data which showed that the cost-of-living has soared to a record high.

This disclosure came on the heels of a statement by Assistant Secretary of Defense Anna M. Rosenberg that the pay increase voted by the 82d Congress for men and women in uniform was not adequate.

It can now be anticipated that a bill to adjust military pay upward by about 5 per cent will be included in the Department of Defense legislative program for 1953.

Pentagon observers see no necessity for the convening of a special committee to work on this problem, since voluminous data was compiled during the preparation and Congressional action on the pay boost which went into effect on 1 May.

That the Bureau of the Budget and the White House would endorse the pay adjustment proposal advocated by Assistant Secretary Rosenberg is foreseen, since approval had been given to the request for a 10 per cent cost-of-living bill last October.

When Congress completed its action on this measure, the proposed retroactive date of 1 July 1951 was eliminated in favor of the 1 May date and the 10 per cent raise was reduced to an average increase of 5 per cent.

Mrs. Rosenberg has stated that the cost-of-living has increased more than twice that much since the Career Compensation Act was passed in the fall of 1949.

The fact of the matter is that the Bureau of Labor Statistics now reports that since June 1950, when hostilities broke out in Korea, there has been a cost-of-living increase of more than 12 per cent.

This means that without computing the extra costs confronting military personnel, such as occur from separation of families, frequent transfers, etc., those in the Service have had a minimum seven per cent cost-of-living reduction in the last two years.

Assistant Secretary Rosenberg spoke out for a cost-of-living pay adjustment following an inspection trip to Europe. Her first-hand observations on the effect on morale of the adverse pay situation are certain to carry much weight at the Pentagon and in other Government agencies.

There is a possibility that now that the Department of Defense's top authority on military manpower problems has spoken out in support of the pay adjustment that other military officials will make their views known.

Meantime, in another aspect of military pay, work is progressing at the Pentagon on the establishment of a commission

B-29s Blast Nakwon Munitions Works; Weather Slows Ground and Sea Action

TORRENTIAL rains in the wake of a typhoon which swept the Korean peninsula early this week almost completely stopped military operations on the ground, and greatly hampered air and naval activities.

Minor patrol actions and light enemy attacks on Bunker Hill and other Allied advance positions constituted the principal operations of ground troops, as both sides sought to dig out of the mud that turned the front into a quagmire, and made bunkers, trenches and other troop shelters untenable.

Four heavy Allied air attacks were made this week on enemy installations, despite the poor flying weather that prevailed during most of the week. American B-29 medium bombers based in Japan made a heavy night attack last Monday on the Nakwon munitions factory, only a few miles south of the Manchurian border at the Yalu River. Improved electronic aiming methods were used, and excellent results were reported. The Nakwon plant was one of the 78 enemy targets listed by the Allies in their advance warnings to North Korean civilians of impending air raids. Intense Red anti-aircraft fire was encountered, but all planes returned home safely.

Another heavy air attack was made on Wednesday by Allied fighter-bombers on a troop and supply concentration near Pyongyang. About 200 planes participated, and the area was saturated with bombs, napalm, rockets, and machine gun fire. Heavy destruction was reported.

Other major air raids were made on industrial and supply areas in Pyongyang, and on a cement plant at Osu.

Typhoon Strikes

The fierce typhoon, known as Karen, greatly limited Allied naval surface and air operations during the week. With ample warning of the big storm, small naval craft sought shelter in friendly harbors along both coasts of South Korea, while the larger ships rode out the storm at sea. Wild seas and strong winds prevailed for several days both in the Yellow Sea and the Sea of Japan. Carrier aircraft remained lashed to the decks most of the week. Despite rough seas there was some firing at enemy targets along the east coast.

Failure of recognition signals resulted in the American minesweeper Chief firing at the United States Salvage Ship Grapple operating in the vicinity of Hungnam. Two men on the salvage ship were killed and nine were wounded before the identity of the vessels was established. An investigation is being conducted to determine the reason for the failure of recognition.

The U. S. Destroyer-Minesweeper Thompson was hit by shore fire near Songjin, which killed four and wounded ten seamen.

The intense fighting on the extreme western front for possession of the key ridge known as Bunker Hill subsided this week, after the Reds had launched another futile attack on the U. S. Marine positions on the crest. In the fierce Communist assaults of last week on this hill, all of which were repulsed, the Reds are believed to have at least 3,000 men.

Throw Back Reds

Early this week about 400 of the enemy again attacked the ridge, but were repulsed by the Marines. Subsequent operations in this sector consisted of only light probes by the enemy, the heavy downpour of rain that accompanied the typhoon and the resultant seas of mud precluding any major action.

Small enemy groups probed United Nations advance positions north of Korangpo-ri and west of Chorwon, and were repulsed in brief firefights. There were also clashes with the enemy west and northwest of Yonchon. Elsewhere along the western front Allied patrols fought minor engagements with small enemy detachments.

In the central sector United Nations troops attacking to recapture an advance hill position east of the Pukhan River closed in hand-to-hand combat with an enemy platoon, and briefly re-occupied the outpost. Later the reinforced enemy counter-attacked and regained the position. In brief patrol skirmishes south-east of Pyongyang disproportionately heavy casualties were inflicted on the enemy.

Northeast of the Punch Bowl on the eastern front an attack on an Allied outpost by a small enemy group was repulsed in a five-minute exchange of gunfire. Allied troops at three advance positions in the Mundung Valley repulsed Red night attacks in fights up to 45 minutes in length. Small enemy groups probing south of Kosong on the east coast were thrown back in an hour-long encounter with Allied troops.

No Storm Damage

Most of the naval effort this week was devoted to coping with the typhoon that hit Korea, making it necessary to take every precaution to safeguard large vessels and small craft from the fury of the storm. With ample warning all ships were protected, and no damage to any unit of the Seventh Fleet was reported.

Before the typhoon struck, and even during the roughest weather, some of the Allied warships were able to carry on a limited bombardment of enemy installations. A few surface units were able to skirt the storm to deliver shell fire in support of Allied ground troops, and to interdict enemy troop and supply movements along coastal routes. Heavy weather, however, made it almost impossible to observe results.

The U. S. Battleship Iowa, screened by the Destroyers Sproston and Tingey, fired hundreds of rounds of 5-inch shells at night at supply points and highways in support of Allied troops at the eastern end of the land battle line south of Kosong. In daylight bombardment the Iowa and accompanying destroyers destroyed or damaged bunkers, trenches and troop shelters. Sixteen-inch fire missions were directed against enemy 76mm gun batteries firing on Allied observation posts. Bad weather made evaluation of results extremely difficult.

Warehouses, caves, and gun positions at Wonsan were hit by the U. S. Destroyers Barton, Sole, and Boyd, which also intercepted traffic on coastal railroads and highways. Near Hungnam the Boyd fired on rail bridges, a tunnel, and several buildings.

USS Grapple Hit

Off Hungnam the U. S. Salvage Vessel Grapple was accidentally damaged by gunfire from the U. S. Minesweeper Chief, and two members of the crew were killed and nine wounded. Two 3-inch shells from the 890-ton minesweeper hit the 1,890-ton Grapple at a range of 1,000 yards. The first shell hit a gun shield and passed through the stack. The second hit the pilot house. The accident occurred at night, and was apparently due to failure of visual recognition.

In far northern Korean waters the British Frigate Mounts Bay delivered gunfire support for the U. S. Minesweeper Heron, as the sweeper recovered abandoned gear off Yuji Dan. During the night the Mounts Bay illuminated the enemy coast line near the friendly-held island of Yando, but observed no Red activity.

The U. S. Destroyer Thompson patrolled this area and fired on a rail bridge. The Thompson and the U. S. Destroyer McDermott also fired on bridges near Tanchon, and then swept north and south of Songjin to drive enemy sampans from the sea. Two South Korean torpedo boats accompanied the American destroyers on this mission. Near Simpo the U. S. Minesweeper Zeal chased four Red sampans ashore. Later the Thompson was hit by fire from Red shore batteries and two members of the crew were killed and 10 others were wounded.

In the Haeju area of the Yellow Sea, off the west coast of Korea, the U. S. Destroyer Strong and the Australian Destroyer Bataan bombarded enemy gun positions. The Canadian Destroyer Crusader hit Red troop billets in the Haeju

Medical Journal Deplores

Decline in Career Security

Loss in the attractiveness of the Services as a career and "very real" damage wrought by changes in disability benefits are noted in an editorial appearing in the August issue of The Military Surgeon, official publication of the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States.

Under the title "Clouds Over Career Service" the editorial discusses many of the factors leading to a feeling of insecurity and dissatisfaction by career personnel such as were analyzed in recent articles in THE ARMY NAVY AIR FORCE JOURNAL.

The text of the editorial from The Military Surgeon follows:

"From the pages of service journals and from the statements of high military officials there is sensed the deplorable fact that at this time of chronic crisis in our foreign relations, there is a large measure of dissatisfaction and feeling of insecurity among career officers of the military services. This at a time when these services should have an attraction as never before to the ambitious young men of the country. There is in operation a revolution in the practice of arms with utterly new and greatly more effective weapons and corresponding changes in the tactics and techniques for their handling. These developments should make the recruitment of the best officer material the easiest of tasks. The Government should be in a position to pick and choose.

Cause for Alarm

"But this is not the situation. By legislation and regulation, the position of the career officer has become deteriorated to an extent to cause alarm. Among several causes for this disquieting situation is the undermining of security of position and of finances. It is safe to say that in the old days the most convincing items of advantage offered with a commission were the security of tenure of position and retirement under fixed conditions and rates of pay. The new officer's position was secure except for misconduct of his own doing or for failure in promotion examinations which were not exacting. He would eventually be retired, if not for physical disability or by his own choice after thirty years of service, then by operation of the age limit law. In any of these cases, retirement carried pay in the amount of seventy-five per cent of that which he was currently drawing. These terms were understood and were accepted as offering permanence of position and a degree of financial security, however modest, to compensate for the loss of opportunity for greater financial gains in civilian pursuits.

"It is the inroads that are being made upon this old-time system that are causing the widespread discontent. The sense of solid security held by the career officer of another day is gone. In a variety of ways, the provisions for that security are being whittled away.

Physical Disability Benefits

"Very real is the damage to the position of the career officer done by the law changing and markedly reducing physical disability benefits. Instead of the standard seventy-five per cent of pay, the disability ratings applied to veteran casualties by the Veterans Administration were adopted for career officer retirements for physical causes.

"However logical this may be in theory, the potentialities of the system are such that this may be a major factor in the lag in officer procurement. One has but to see himself as of a dozen years of service when he finds himself physically disqualified for further military service from a cause not greatly disabling in general. He sees himself given a thirty per cent rating and in his thirties separated from the service which has given him no special fitness for civilian employment. If the prospective candidate for a commission has that kind of clairvoyance, the chance of his joining up is not good.

Retirement Problem

"Another serious, though probably temporary, cause of discontent is the abolition of retirement after thirty years of service. There are many officers who acquire this term of service at an age when they feel they can add to their incomes in private pursuits, whereas this would not be possible after they had reached the statutory age. These men are deprived not only of some financial gains, but of positions that soften the boredom of purposeless retirement.

"An added element in the dissatisfaction with these two innovations is the feeling that there has been a breach of the contract under which officers of some service were commissioned.

"With the weakening of security, there has been no compensatory increase in current pay. Indeed it was a recommendation of the Hook Commission that for certain reasons military pay should not be entirely comparable to that for comparable civilian employment. The working of this thought is seen in the recent ten per cent increase in pay to the organized civilian employees of the Government and the four per cent increase in base pay for the military. It may be said in passing that current pay has never been the criterion of service desirability. However this factor is assuming greater importance in view of mounting living costs.

"For some reason not easily understood, the military does not have at this time a good press. There is some significance in the increased tendency to refer to military officers as 'brass' or 'brass hats' and the effect upon the public mind is not good. Congress too seems to indulge at times in spiteful or punitive legislation, usually the curtailment of long-standing privileges. It has boundless sympathy for any plight of the soldier in Korea, but is scarcely as thoughtful of the man who tomorrow may be called upon to replace him.

"The situation thus sketchily outlined is well known to the higher authorities in each of the services. They are saying that if the country is going to be satisfied only with the best in the way of officer material for its forces, then a number of measures must be taken to make the services as attractive as they formerly were. The sine qua non to that end is assured permanence of office and a reasonable degree of financial security in retirement."

Navy Hospital Ships Care For 33,000

Navy hospital ships operating in the Korean theater during the period July 1950 through March 1952 have cared for over 33,000 United Nations patients, or approximately 50 admissions per day.

The three U. S. Navy hospital ships operating in the Korean theater are: the USS Consolation which was in active service at the onset of the Korean action; the USS Repose; and the USS Haven. The latter two ships were reactivated during the third quarter of 1950. In many instances it has been possible for these ships to operate "close-in" to the Korean coast, almost within sight of the battle lines.

Close support afforded by the hospital ships, which are equipped with landing platforms for helicopters, "has made it possible for many of the wounded to be flown direct from the battle zone to the hospital ships in a matter of minutes," the Navy Bureau of Medicine & Surgery said.

The hospital ships handled a peak load of over 7,800 patients during the three-month period, October-December 1950. During a nine-month period October 1950 through June 1951 the ships admitted an average of nearly 2,400 patients per month.

A peak load of 3,820 U. S. Navy and Marine Corps patients were admitted by the ships during the months of April, May and June 1951. The peak load of U. S. Army and Air Force patients numbered 4,493 during the months of October, November and December 1950.

Although no break-down of personnel of other United Nations forces was made, over 2,000 individuals of miscellaneous categories have been cared for aboard the hospital ships.

Navy Dental Corps Is 40

The fortieth anniversary of the Navy Dental Corps was observed this week.

An act passed by Congress on 22 Aug. 1912, authorized the first appointments of assistant dental surgeons in the Medical Department of the Navy, limiting the number to not more than thirty. The first two appointments went to Dr. Emory Addison Bryant and Dr. William Neal Cogan, of Washington, D. C. Both were given appointments in the grade of acting assistant dental surgeon and, while they were not made lieutenants (jg), they had a relative position in that rank among other officers of the Navy and wore uniform devices indicating that rank.

The service was officially designated the Naval Dental Corps by a later act of Congress on 29 August 1916. Since then it has gained international recognition through its professional and scientific achievements.

Rear Adm. Daniel W. Ryan, DC, USN, Chief of the Dental Division, extended his "warmest congratulations" this week to all Naval dental personnel, and his "deep appreciation of their splendid performance of duty."

Social Security Benefits For WWII and Korean Vets

New amendments to the Social Security Act went into effect last month under which wage credits will be given for active service in the Armed Forces through 31 Dec. 1953. The earlier Act gave such credits from 16 Sept. 1940 to 24 July 1947 and the new amendments extend the provisions from 25 July 1947 to the end of next year.

The extended provisions provide old-age and survivors' insurance wage credits of $160 per month for service in the active military or naval forces during the periods cited.

The new credits will apply to monthly benefits for months after August 1952 and to lump-sum death payments where death occurs after August 1952. Like the World War II credits, the new credits may not be counted towards old-age and survivors' insurance benefits if a periodic benefit (such as military, Civil Service or other retirement systems) based in whole or in part on the same military service is determined to be payable by another Federal agency (other than the Veterans Administration).

Burial Expenses

The new amendments also extend the time normally permitted for claiming reimbursement for burial expenses where a serviceman dies abroad between 25 June 1950 and 31 Dec. 1954, and is returned to the United States for burial or reburial. Reimbursement may be claimed within two years of the date of burial or reburial rather than within two years of the date of death, as previously required.

Officials of the Social Security Administration expect that Congress will give further consideration to proposals for covering military service under the insurance program before the new amendments expire at the end of 1953.

It should be noted that while, for social security purposes, these credits for service in World War II count the same as wages in civilian employment, they are not actually listed on the individual's wage record. Determination of such wage credits will be made when the individual files an application for retirement benefits, or when an application is filed in the event of death of the insured.

It will be necessary at that time to furnish proof of military service, and if the individual was discharged, proof that the conditions were other than dishonorable. The military wage credits will then be added to the wage credits accumulated the veteran accumulated in work covered by social security before and since his period of military service. The combination of wage credits earned in covered employment and Service wage credits cannot exceed $3,000 in any one year.

Benefits Now

These wage credits will immediately benefit many survivors of men who died while in military service, regardless of the length of such service. Also, military service wage credits may benefit survivors of servicemen who die after discharge. For example, a man who served for 18 months may have died "insured" on the basis of military service alone. If he left a widow with children who were dependent and are now under age 18, these survivors would be eligible for monthly benefit payments.

If a veteran with military service during the covered period dies within three years of the date of his discharge and no compensation or pension is paid by the Veterans' Administration, his dependent survivors are eligible for social security payments under a special provision of the law which grants the payments without regard to covered employment. In such cases, however, the $160 a month wage credits are used only if, combined with actual earnings credits, they will give higher payments to the family.

Because of the many complications and ramifications of the Act it is very important that the widow of every man who dies after military service during the covered period should inquire about benefits at a social security office, regardless of whether death occurred in Service or after discharge. It is believed that many widows are not drawing amounts due to them solely because they are not informed on this law and have not inquired about benefits to which they may be entitled.

Sec'y Lovett Creates Citizens Group To Review Military Manpower-Equipment

Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett has established a committee of 11 members, including a retired general or flag officer from the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps, to make recommendations for "the most economical and effective use of manpower and equipment in the Armed Services."

The text of the directive establishing the committee was made public and is published herewith in full. Names of the members were not available when THE JOURNAL went to press.

Last week's issue predicted that following the return of Assistant Secretary of Defense Anna M. Rosenberg from a trip to Europe, that creation of the Manpower Committee would quickly follow.

The full name of the group is the Citizens Advisory Committee to Review Tables of Organization and Tables of Equipment in the Armed Forces.

Its creation was called for by the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee, headed by Senator Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.), and by Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), chairman of the Senate Appropriations Armed Services Subcommittee. They charged that the Armed Forces are "bloated by too much fat—too much water—and it is binding the hard muscle of military strength."

Additionally, Section 640 of the 1953 Appropriations Act directs the Secretary of Defense "to submit revised tables of organization and tables of equipment of the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps to the Congress, together with recommendations for decreasing the number of personnel positions, clerical positions, supply positions and other administrative positions so that the combat effectiveness of our Armed Forces may be improved."

The Services are rounding up organization and equipment charts and other pertinent materials with which the committee will work when it is formed. A Technical Staff Director and an Executive Secretary will be furnished the committee by Assistant Secretary Rosenberg, and the committee will report to her through its chairman.

Fully authorized, full-time representatives for each Service will be appointed by the Secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force, to direct, coordinate and supervise the implementation of necessary actions on the part of the four Services.

During its deliberations, the Committee also will consider existing legislation that affects manpower requirements in the Services and, by direction of Mr. Lovett, will "recommend needed changes or new legislation" wherever such action is "considered essential."

The following is the text of the directive:

Department of Defense Directive

SUBJECT

Citizens Advisory Committee to Review Tables of Organization and Tables of Equipment in the Armed Services

There is hereby established in the Office of the Secretary of Defense a Citizens Advisory Committee to Review Tables of Organization and Tables of Equipment in the Armed Services

I. MEMBERSHIP

A. The Chairman and members of the Committee shall be appointed by and serve at the pleasure of the Secretary of Defense.

B. The Committee will be composed of not more than eleven eminent citizens, the majority of whom shall be civilians, and will include a retired general or flag officer from each of the four Armed Services: Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps.

II. PURPOSE

It is the purpose of the Committee to submit recommendations designed to accomplish the most economical and effective use of manpower and equipment in the Armed Services.

III. OBJECTIVES

A. The Committee will conduct a thorough examination of the authorities, responsibilities, criteria and standards within each Service involved in the development, authorization and audit of Tables of Organization, Tables of Distribution, and Tables of Equipment or their equivalents, and submit recommendations designed to accomplish the most economical and effective use of manpower with no diminution of the Services' required combat capabilities.

B. The Committee will consider existing legislation that affects manpower requirements in the Services and recommend needed changes or new legislation considered essential.

IV. AUTHORITY

A. The Committee will have authority to review and examine all functions of the Armed Services necessary to achieve its objectives.

B. The Committee will have authority to visit all installations and establishments of the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps, except sensitive areas requiring special clearances.

V. ADMINISTRATION

A. The Committee will report through the Chairman to the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Manpower and Personnel).

B. A Director of the Technical Staff and an Executive Secretary will be furnished by the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Manpower and Personnel).

C. The Committee will be furnished such supporting technical and clerical assistance as may be required.

D. The Secretary of each Department will appoint his fully authorized, full-time representative for each Service who will be responsible for directing, coordinating and supervising the implementation of necessary actions on the part of each Service. The character and size of the support within each Service shall be adequate to the Committee's needs.

SecDef Lovett Urges Quick Naming of Successor

Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett this week expressed the hope that the President-elect after 4 Nov. would quickly name someone to sit in on fiscal year 1954 budget deliberations at the Pentagon.

Saying that he would not continue as Secretary, Mr. Lovett stressed the need for continuity in leadership at the Pentagon.

(The Memo to JOURNAL readers in last week's issue reported a "top-level feeling at the Pentagon that the successful candidate for President should immediately designate his choice for SecDef . . .")

In addition to urging that his successor be indicated, so that, following necessary security clearance, detailed briefings could be held in November, December and January, Mr. Lovett reported that much thought is being given to the problem of continuity in the Department of Defense civilian staff.

Insofar as budget planning is concerned, the Pentagon has been fortunate in that one official has had the key role in this responsibility since Unification. That official is Assistant Secretary of Defense W. J. McNeil, who is responsible for budget and comptroller matters.

Assistant Secretary McNeil has served under Secretaries James Forrestal, Louis

Johnson, and George C. Marshall and remained at the Pentagon to serve under Mr. Lovett.

It is highly conceivable that the new President might urge Mr. McNeil to remain in his post until budget hearings were completed or at least well along in the 83d Congress.

USAF Dental Service

Three Air Force dental officers have been selected to participate in the Advanced Dentistry Course at the Army Medical Department Research and Graduate School, Walter Reed Army Medical Center, Washington, D. C., from 25 Aug. to 12 Dec. They are: Lt. Col. Thomas B. Connell, Keesler AFB, Miss.; Lt. Col. John R. McEvoy, Chanute AFB, Ill.; and Maj. Robert P. Reynolds, Long Beach Municipal Airport, Calif.

Psywar. Center Exec.

Lt. Col. Carleton E. Fisher, who recently returned to the United States after serving more than a year as chief advisor to an Infantry Division of the Turkish Army, has been appointed Executive Officer of the Psychological Warfare Center, Ft. Bragg, N. C. Colonel Fisher succeeds Col. Aaron Bank, who will remain with the Center as Commander of the 10th Special Forces Group.

Army Cols.' Board Nears

End; AF Remains Mum

The Army board, headed by General Wade H. Haislip, USA-Ret., which has been reviewing the records of approximately 1,000 colonels facing mandatory retirement in 1953 and 1954, is nearing completion of its task.

There is a possibility the board, all of whose members are retired general officers, will finish its deliberations next week.

Army officials promised speedy action following the issuance of the Executive Order which authorizes retention of up to 60 per cent of the permanent colonels with 30 years' service and five years in permanent grade.

Immediately after the board's report is approved, each officer will be notified as to his status.

Meantime, the Air Force which has said only that at the present time it will consider the possibility of retaining only those permanent colonels who hold higher temporary grades, declines to give out any other details.

Reports persist that the Air Force is not going to retain any of the approximately 50 permanent colonels—about a third of them serving in higher grades—next year.

Air Force spokesmen say only that recommendations have been sent to the Department of Defense, but that approval of Air Force plans has not yet been forthcoming.

The Air Force declined comment when confronted with the statement in a letter from a JOURNAL reader which alleges that the permanent colonels already have received letters notifying them that they will retire on 31 July 1953.

The text of that letter is published on the editorial page of this issue.

If it is true that letters already have been dispatched to all of the permanent Air Force colonels, including those holding higher temporary rank, the Air Force reluctance to give out details on the fate of the permanent colonels is difficult to understand.

Advanced Dentistry Course

The eighth class in advanced dentistry will report to the Walter Reed Army Medical Center 25 Aug. for a 16-week course. Army dental officers scheduled to report are:

Lt. Col. Raymond E. Madden, D. C., Ft. Eustis, Va.

JLC Staff JAG

Col. Charles A. Weaver has been named staff judge advocate of Japan Logistical Command, fountainhead of the Korean war supply line. Prior to his arrival in the Orient in late July, Colonel Weaver had served in a similar capacity at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.

Directs Ranger Training

Col. Gerald C. Kelleher became director of the Ft. Benning, Ga., Infantry School's Ranger Department on 21 Aug., succeeding Col. Henry G. Learnard, reassigned to the Far East Command.

Transportation Corps Given Aircraft Logistic Support

Responsibility for procurement, supply and maintenance of all Army aircraft has been transferred from the Ordnance Corps to the Transportation Corps.

At the present time, the Army has about 1700 fixed-wing and helicopter types of aircraft assigned to combat and service support units.

The Transportation Corps, which has recently created Helicopter Transport Companies, now is the major user of Army aircraft.

Other combat and service units use Army aircraft for a variety of missions, including aerial observation, artillery spotting, wire laying, communications, and medical evacuation of wounded.

Concurrently with transfer of functions, all Ordnance Army aircraft maintenance and repair units will be transferred, together with their personnel, and redesignated as Transportation Corps units. No immediate change in the physical location of units involved is contemplated, the Army said.

Plans call for Ordnance military personnel engaged in work with Army aircraft as a primary duty to remain in such duties until 30 June 1953. This will allow time for readjustment under Transportation control, including submission of applications by individuals who wish to transfer to the Transportation Corps.

Army Pictorial Service

Maj. William M. Sheahan, formerly Motion Picture Laboratory Supervisor, Chief Service Division, 9440 TSU Signal Corps Center, Long Island City, N. Y., has been designated Chief, Photographic Planning and Requirements Branch, Army Pictorial Service Division. He relieves Lt. Col. Ralph W. White, who will attend the Signal Advanced Officer Course at Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

Gen. Boatner To Fourth Army

Maj. Gen. Haydon L. Boatner, Commanding General of the Prisoner of War Camp on Koje Island, Korea, has been assigned to Headquarters, Fourth Army at Ft. Sam Houston, Tex.

During World War II, General Boatner was Chief of Staff of the Chinese Training Project at Ramgarh, India, and subsequently became Chief of Staff of the Chinese Army in India also at Ramgarh.

In August 1951 he was assigned to the Far East Command, and soon after became Assistant Division Commander of the 2d Infantry Division in Korea. He assumed command of the Prisoner of War Camp on Koje Island last May.

In commenting on General Boatner's recent promotion to major general, General Mark W. Clark, Commander-in-Chief, United Nations Command, expressed his gratification and stated that the promotion was in recognition of General Boatner's achievements and splendid record, including combat in Korea, and on Koje-do. He said:

"General Boatner has a fine record of service during his long military career. His combat record as Assistant Division Commander of the 2d Division during some of the hardest fighting in Korea was superior. His services on Koje-do during a critical period were outstanding. He displayed excellent judgment and the necessary firmness in carrying out his directives to secure and maintain control and discipline among recalcitrant and terrorist Communist prisoners of war. I am confident that his services will be equally outstanding in his present and future assignments. General Boatner has my heartiest congratulations."

Allied Liaison Chief

Lt. Col. Claudius M. Easley, jr., has been named chief of The Infantry School's Allied Liaison Section at Ft. Benning, Ga. He replaces Lt. Col. Stephen J. Meade, who will attend The Infantry School's advanced course.

During World War II, Colonel Easley served with the War Department's Intelligence Division and in Sixth Army headquarters in the Pacific. He was a member of the U. S. military attache's staff to Paris from 1946-49. He served with the Third Infantry Division in Korea in 1950, and with the Korean Military Advisory Group in 1951.

Colonel Easley is the son of the late Brig. Gen. C. M. Easley and Mrs. Easley of 3601 Connecticut Ave., N. W., Washington, D. C.

Logistics Deputy

Col. Lucien F. Wells, jr., has been named Deputy Director of the USAREUR Logistics Division, succeeding Brig. Gen. Frank A. Henning who has been reassigned to the new US European Command Headquarters in Frankfurt.

Colonel Wells has served as Chief of the Logistics Division's Supply Branch since he arrived in Germany in July, 1951.

New European Command

In explanation of the new command set up in Europe, the Public Information Division, Hq., U. S. Army Europe, has compiled a series of questions naturally arising in the minds of those concerned with our position there and supplied the answers.

The change came about through the order of the Joint Chiefs of Staff directing General Matthew B. Ridgway to assume the duties of Commander-in-Chief, U. S. European Command, in addition to his responsibilities as NATO commander in Europe.

General Ridgway immediately designated General Thomas T. Handy as his deputy US CINCEUR and gave him broad authority to act for him in his new capacity.

To clarify the new set-up the following questions and answers were compiled and officially released:

1. How does this change affect the NATO command structure?

Answer: This change in U. S. command structure will have no direct effect on the NATO command structure. However, the new headquarters is designed to improve the effectiveness of U. S. forces assigned or earmarked for employment in the NATO command structure by providing for more efficient utilization of resources allotted to this end.

2. What role will General Handy's new Headquarters play in event of an emergency?

Answer: General Handy's new Headquarters was designed primarily to solve logistical and administrative problems of joint concern presently existing in peacetime. It would continue these functions in wartime.

3. What will be the total number of personnel assigned to General Handy's new Headquarters?

Answer: Approximately two hundred and fifty (250) officers together with normal enlisted and civilian headquarters and support personnel.

4. In what fields is it expected that the new command arrangement for U. S. Forces in Europe will effect economies?

Answer: It is expected that the new command arrangement will effect economies by the elimination of duplication in the establishment of facilities and provision of services in areas of joint interest, by coordination of the development of the service budgets, by coordination of the development of negotiation for military rights.

5. Who will be the principal members of General Handy's new staff?

Answer: Unknown.

6. How will this staff be organized?

Answer: The staff will be organized along the lines of a joint staff as prescribed by JCS doctrines, modified as necessary to fit the needs of this particular situation. It will include directors of Morale and Welfare, Intelligence, Plans and Policies, and Logistics. Also included as a part of the Headquarters will be the Military Aid Group presently in JAMAG.

7. Will there be a balanced representation of each of the three U. S. services in the key positions of General Handy's new staff?

Answer: There will be balanced representation of the three U. S. services in key positions on General Handy's new staff.

8. What will be the approximate proportion of personnel from each of the three services in General Handy's staff?

Answer: The proportion of personnel from each of the three services under the new staff will be in the approximate ratio of the strengths of the services represented. This gives a slightly greater number of personnel of Army and Air Force than of the Navy.

9. What will be the relationship of General Handy's Headquarters to Mr. Draper's office?

Answer: General Handy is the military counterpart of Mr. Draper. He will work very closely with Mr. Draper's office in the solution of U. S. problems in Europe as they affect the military.

10. What will happen to such agencies as JAMAG?

Answer: JAMAG is being completely absorbed by the new Headquarters.

11. What agencies will come under the control of General Handy's Headquarters?

Answer: In addition to JAMAG the U. S. liaison officer SHAPE together with many other miscellaneous agencies throughout Europe will come under the control of General Handy's Headquarters.

12. When will the change-over actually become effective?

Answer: General Handy's new Headquarters will be opened 1 August 1952; however, it will require until 1 October until the Headquarters is fully staffed and completely operational. During the developmental period activities will be taken over gradually.

13. When will General Handy's new Headquarters be opened?

Answer: Answered by No. 12.

14. When will all the change-over actually become effective?

Answer: See No. 12 above.

15. How will offshore procurement for the three services be accomplished under the new command arrangements?

Answer: The new Headquarters will coordinate off-shore procurement by the three services with the operational service details being completed by the three

—the Douglas Skyknight

Designed and built for Navy carriers, the Douglas F3D Skyknight provides our fleets with round-the-clock protection. Attack, patrol, reconnaissance, or escort, Skyknight can handle them all.

Aided by its radar eyes, the Skyknight can search out distant targets 24 hours a day. The pilot of this unique two-man, twin-jet, long-range fighter—guided by his radar operator—comes in on targets with split-hair accuracy . . . to hit with both rockets and bullets. And although Skyknight approaches sonic speeds, its hydraulic flaps can slow it down for combat maneuvers or carrier landings.

The carrier-based F3D Skyknight, now in volume production, is typical of Douglas leadership in aviation. Planes that can be mass-produced to fly further and faster with a bigger payload is the basic rule of Douglas design.

Select Navy Captains;

Three Are Reservists

Two hundred and twelve Line commanders were named this week by the Navy for promotion to captain, including three Reservists, 68 Naval Aviators, 17 EDO and 11 AEDO officers.

Sixteen of the Regulars were selected from above the promotion zone, and the remaining 193 were taken from within the zone. The junior officer selected by the board was the zone anchor man, Commander E. E. Lord, III. About 55 officers were passed over for the second time, and 39 within the zone were passed over for the first time.

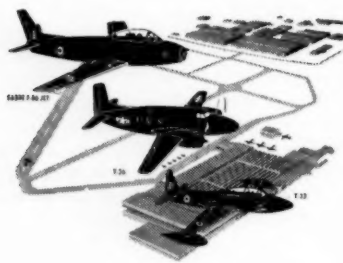

Members of the Naval Academy Class of 1934 received the largest share of the selections with a total of 195. Of the remaining Regulars, one was commissioned in 1928, two in 1930, five in 1931, one in 1932, four in 1933, and one in 1937.

Ages for the group range from 38 to 51, with the largest numbers falling in the 39-41 area. The average age is 41.

In addition to the 68 Naval Aviators (eleven of whom are qualified for both heavier-than-air and lighter-than-air craft), there are 41 officers in the group who are qualified for command of submarines, and one who is qualified for submarine duty.

Observers noted that Navy selections for the grade of captain have gone steadily downhill during the past three years. The 1950 board named 346 officers for promotion to captain, including seven Reservists; the 1951 board named 277, including 26 Reservists; and this year's board only 212, including three Reservists.

THE JOURNAL reported in an article last week that the 1952 selections would probably be considerably less than last year due to the effects of the promotion restrictions imposed by the Davis Amendment. The Navy stated, when it first announced the board, that "Due to recent

FOR CONTINENTAL DEFENSE

In defense of the borders of our continent—and our hemisphere—Canadair Limited, Electric Boat's Canadian subsidiary, is now building F-86* Sabre jet interceptors—will soon be in production on T-33* jet trainers and T-36* advanced trainer transports for use by the air forces of Canada, Great Britain and the U. S. A.

In addition to these activities at Canadair, our yards at Groton, Connecticut, are busily engaged in developing and building advanced types of submarines and PT boats. Thus Electric Boat works constantly to strengthen the forces of democracy.

NRS Honors Mrs. Olsen

The Navy Relief Society has bestowed its highest honor upon Mrs. Clarence E. Olsen, Chairman of Volunteer Women of the Rhode Island Auxiliary of the Navy Relief Society.

Mrs. Olsen, wife of Rear Adm. Clarence E. Olsen, USN, Commander, Naval Base, Newport, was presented with the Society's Certificate of Meritorious Service and the accompanying pin, by Lt. Comdr. Newell D. Lindner, Senior Station Chaplain, at the last meeting of the Advisory Board.

"Preeminently qualified through her many capacities and abilities" in the words of Chaplain Lindner, Executive Secretary of the local (Newport) office, Mrs. Olsen was honored in recognition of her devoted service for "unusual achievement" over a score of years as a Navy Relief volunteer.

Also recognized recently for their Navy Relief work with the Auxiliary were eleven women awarded pins denoting "regular and faithful service to the society for at least 100 hours." They are Mrs. John J. Jennings, Mrs. J. B. Barkley, Mrs. A. R. Johnson, Mrs. G. E. King, Mrs. B. D. Mulkins, Mrs. A. G. Raht, Mrs. W. P. Battell, Mrs. H. P. Forbes, Mrs. J. B. Sweeney, Mrs. A. H. Wellman and Mrs. Clifton Iverson.

Col. Martin Assigned

Lt. Col. M. C. Martin, jr., USMC, has been assigned to the new Armed Forces Textile and Apparel Procurement Agency in New York City.

Colonel Martin was formerly executive officer of the general supply section of the Supply Department, Marine Corps Headquarters. He was officer in charge of the clothing unit.

PARTS PROBLEM

The average Army combat vehicle has between 80,000 and 90,000 parts as compared with 17,000 parts for the average automobile. About 6,000 separate engineering drawings are required to build the average combat vehicle.

Marine Promotions Being Slowed Down

Promotions for Marine Corps officers "will be slowed down through 30 June 1953," the Corps disclosed this week, although there will be no reductions in rank or forced release of Reservists.

The Davis Amendment to the 1953 Appropriations Act, which clamps restrictions on promotions in all of the Services, will prevent the Marines from adding another three-star officer to their top ranks, but will give them six more two-star officers than they now have, permitting the immediate promotion of five brigadier generals recently selected for major general.

In addition, the amendment will have these effects on other Marine Corps ranks:

Brigadier Generals—Permits 31 (the same number the Corps now has). With the retirement of Brig. Gen. Fred S. Robillard, and the promotion of Brigadier Generals George F. Good, jr., Clayton C. Jerome, Randolph McC. Pate, James A. Stuart, and Merrill B. Twining, the Corps will then be able to promote six of the eight colonels recently selected for promotion to one-star rank. Two will have to wait for other vacancies at a later date.

Colonels—Permits 546. "Promotions will be slow and a new selection board will not be convened for some time," Headquarters said. The JOURNAL reported last week that 36 vacancies will occur in this grade before next July. This week, the Marine Corps said some of the vacancies will be filled by "eligible lieutenant colonels who have been waiting for a year." However, only one such officer still remains to be promoted.

Lieutenant Colonels—Permits 1,186. "The biggest cutback" will be in this grade, the Marine Corps said. Approximately 166 promotions will be allowed for the rest of the fiscal year. Last November, the Corps selected 293 officers for promotion to lieutenant colonel.

Majors—Permits 2,522. "It is doubtful," HQMC said, "that there can be another selection board for major before 30 June 1953." At present, 329 captains remain on the promotion list to major and "it will be some time," Headquarters noted, before any of them can be advanced.

Captains—Permits 5,339. There are now 5,370 on duty, or 31 more than the amendment permits. "While this is not a great excess," Headquarters said, "the limited movement of captains to major will block promotions to captain. It is anticipated that the small surplus will be worked off soon and enough vacancies created to make it possible to convene a selection board shortly before 30 June 1953."

The Marine Corps noted that, "Although the Davis Rider placed no limits on first or second lieutenant, these grades are also affected to a limited degree by the block on promotions to captain. There were only 647 first lieutenants on duty on 30 June, but billets for 3,799. Thus, a majority of the 5,773 second lieutenants on duty can be promoted as they complete 18 months in grade. Most of the promotions to first lieutenant will be made about the first of the year.

Gen. Hart Appointed

Brig. Gen. John N. Hart, Deputy Commander of Air, Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic, Norfolk, Va., has been promoted to that rank under an interim appointment, following his recent selection.

Col. Francis B. Loomis, jr., also selected for promotion to brigadier general, has been ordered to new duty with Force Troops, Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic, Camp Lejeune, N. C. He had previously served with the Office of the Chief of Naval Operations.

CINCSOUTH

a winged lion whose paw rests upon the Book of Peace, but holds a naked blade on its defense. This is the well known Lion of St. Mark, but it is interesting to note that this symbol has been known throughout the Mediterranean and the Middle East since pre-Christian days. Centuries before the time of Christ, and for centuries afterwards, many of the great political and military figures in this part of the world had adopted the winged lion as their insignia. So, although this symbol is most generally known as the Lion of St. Mark, he is a familiar figure, in one form or another, throughout the entire area. At CINCSOUTH's Headquarters the Lion is gold on a maroon field. The Air command has adopted a silver lion on a blue field, and the Naval command has elected to wear the golden lion on a blue field.

The Alpini, not to be outdone, have incorporated their own traditional color, green, in their adaptation of the symbol.

CINCSOUTH first established his Headquarters aboard the U. S. S. MOUNT OLYMPUS at Naples in June, 1951 and moved ashore in September. The Headquarters and the staff are thoroughly allied, integrated, and unified. Major General James Gavin, U. S. Army is the Chief of Staff and he has two deputies one of whom is a U. S. Navy aviator, Rear Admiral Stanhope Ring, and the other Major General Aldo Gandin of the Italian Army. The staff includes Italian, French, Greek, Turkish, British and American officers of all services and the same principles of integration apply in varying degrees to the subordinate headquarters of the South Europe Command.

Planning and training are the two top priority projects. Land, sea, and air training exercises, stressing communications and sound technical procedures have been carried out and an even more strenuous and ambitious program has been outlined for the months ahead.

One of the greatest problems to be licked has been of the language barrier, but surprising progress has been made. Fortunately our Allies have recognized the fact that the Americans have little natural facility with foreign languages and have graciously and resignedly set about learning English.

It is little less than astonishing to observe the progress that they have made in one year and to see how far the barrier has been broken down through their efforts.

The Southern Command, like the rest of NATO, is still a long way from its ultimate goal, but the muscles of the under-belly of Europe are tuning up and there is heartening evidence of a kindred toughening of spirit and resolution. Italy has made great strides in the reconstruction of her armed forces and to the NATO command. Greece and Turkey have now added resolute and blooded forces to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and are providing a tough eastern anchor to the NATO line. The air force build-up is on its way but not fast enough to suit any of us. The navies are probably the farthest advanced in Allied training by reason of the fact that they had been working together even before the establishment of SHAPE.

All hands in the Southern Command are imbued with a sense of the vital importance of South Europe and the Mediterranean Sea. All of the Mediterranean countries have long realized the critical strategic importance of this area and throughout the Southern Command there is a universal understanding that this land area and this sea cannot be lost and must not be lost.

I think I voice the universal sentiments in this area when I say that it will be successfully defended.

Lt. Col. George W. Herring, USMC, former Commanding Officer of Marine Helicopter Experimental Squadron One at Quantico, is now serving as Aide to General Lemuel C. Shepherd, Jr., Commandant of the Marine Corps. Colonel Herring was in charge of the first mass movement of troops by helicopter in the Korean war.

Lt. Col. Foster C. LaHue, USMC, also Aide to General Shepherd, was selected last week by a Marine board for integration into the Regular Marine Corps.

Flag Shifts

Rear Adm. Austin K. Doyle, former Commander of Carrier Division Four, has been assigned to command of the Caribbean Sea Frontier, the Navy disclosed this week. Admiral Doyle's new assignment was one of five flag shifts released by the Navy. Others transferred to new duty stations are:

Rear Adm. Delbert S. Cornwell, Commander of Carrier Division Fifteen, who will become Commander, Fleet Air, Seattle.

Rear Adm. Harold E. Stone, Commander of Cruiser Division One, who will become a member of the Joint Staff of the Commander in Chief, U.S. European Command, Europe.

Rear Adm. William L. Erdmann, Commander of Naval Air Base Eleven, 11th Naval District, will take command of Carrier Division Fourteen.

Rear Adm. Dale Harris, Commander, Fleet Air, Seattle, will become Commanding Officer of the Naval Station at Kwajalein in the Marshall Islands.

New Post for General's Aide

Col. Frank T. Mildren, former senior aide to General James A. Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander, has arrived at Ft. Benning, Ga., to take over duties as chief of Attack Group in The Infantry School's Tactical Department.

Colonel Mildren replaces Col. James Y. Adams, named chief of the school's Research and Analysis Section.

New-Type Instruction, Longer Course at MCS

Marine student-officers reporting to Quantico, Va., this Fall, for instruction at the Marine Corps Schools, will find two innovations—an extended course of instruction, and a new academic building in which they will be taught amphibious landing techniques by a method not previously used at the Schools.

The new "school year" at Quantico, for officers attending the senior and junior courses, will be seven months. Normally, the schools operate on a regular college academic year of nine months but courses were accelerated shortly after the Korean outbreak and classes since then have been convened for five-month periods only. With the demands for MCS-trained officers now less pressing, classes at the Senior Officers' School and the Junior Officers' School are being lengthened to seven months.

At the same time, it was learned that the Schools will open a new academic building at Quantico this Fall. Recently completed, and now being equipped to house the most modern visual teaching devices, the building is a large, gymnasium-like structure adjacent to, and connected with, Breckinridge Hall, the Marine Corps Educational Center administration building.

Here, the Schools will instruct student-officers in amphibious warfare, using scale models to plan and execute amphibious landings. A 35 by 50 foot terrain model, now being completed by the Navy Special Devices Center on Long Island, will occupy most of the floor space in the building. Running along the sides of the "island," from floor to ceiling, are desks for the students.

Model carriers, battleships, cruisers, destroyers, submarines and landing craft of all types, also built to scale, will be brought into play around the "island," and students will be assigned the task of maneuvering the vessels into position for assaults on the "beach." Special lighting equipment has been installed in the ceiling of the new building, including a number of ultra-violet lights for use in "night" problems. The vessels used in the problems are painted with fluorescent colors which are made vivid by the use of the ultra-violet lighting.

Also installed in the new building is a projection room from which movies of amphibious landings can be shown on a large screen which occupies one end of the large classroom.

The exact date for the opening of the new building has not been announced, but it is anticipated that it will be ready for use by the first classes which convene at Quantico early in October.

USMC Pistol Team

The Marine Corps Air Station at Cherry Point, N. C., had both a men's and women's pistol team in the National Pistol Championships at Jacksonville, Fla., this week.

Some of the top pistol shots in the nation competed in the meet, including last year's national champion, M. Sgt. Huelet L. Penner, USA. Matches included both individual and team events, with contestants firing first for personal score and then for team total.

Competition was held with the .22-caliber pistol for both men and women, and the men also fired the .38 and the .45 automatic.

Commands Shipyard

Capt. Peter W. Haas, Jr., USN, recently selected for promotion to Rear Admiral, has assumed duties as Commander, U. S. Naval Shipyard, Philadelphia. He had been serving as Fleet Maintenance Officer on the Staff of Commander, Service Force, U. S. Pacific Fleet, with additional duties on the Staff of the Commander in Chief, U. S. Pacific Fleet.

AF Hopes for Record Low in Air Crashes

The Air Force this week reported a 9 per cent decline in major aircraft accidents during the first six months of 1952 from the preceding six-month period in 1951, and said that if the current low rate is maintained for the remainder of the year, a record low will have been achieved.

The accident rate during the first six months of 1952 was 29 for every 100,000 hours flown, which compares with 32 last year.

The Air Force said the current decline is a continuation of the general downward trend in major accident rates since the postwar high of 61 in 1946.

Improvement of the accident situation has taken place in spite of the large-scale expansion of flying activity. Experience in the present emergency is completely dissimilar to experience prior to and during the early part of World War II when an upswing in accident rates occurred, an Air Force statement related.

Despite the decline in aircraft accident rates, the overall cost of aircraft accidents increased during the period due to the introduction of increased numbers of newer and more expensive aircraft into the flying program.

The greatest improvement in major accident rates occurred in the jet-fighter category: These aircraft as a class generally have the highest number of accidents per 100,000 flying hours. The jet-fighter rate has decreased from 101 during the first half of 1951 to 97 in the second half, and down sharply to 79 during the first six months of 1952. This is the lowest major accident rate ever recorded for Air Force jet fighter aircraft and represents a 22 per cent decline between this year and the corresponding period last year.

A reduction of bomber accident rates occurred also with a drop from 23 per 100,000 flying hours during the first six months of 1951 to 19 per 100,000 flying hours in the following six months' period and 18 in the period under discussion.

Accident rates per 100,000 flying hours for other types of aircraft are as follows:

	First 6 Mos. 1951	Last Six Mos. 1951	First 6 Mos. 1952*
Non-Jet Fighter	73 per 100,000 flying hours	75 per 100,000 flying hours	66 per 100,000 flying hours
Cargo	11 per 100,000 flying hours	11 per 100,000 flying hours	10 per 100,000 flying hours
Trainer	21 per 100,000 flying hours	26 per 100,000 flying hours	23 per 100,000 flying hours

*Data for June 1952 are preliminaries.

"Airman of the Year"

General Curtis E. LeMay, Commanding General of Strategic Air Command, USAF, last week received the "Airman of the Year" Trophy from air-minded youths of 16 nations in a ceremony at the Hotel Astor in New York City.

The trophy was presented to General LeMay by youths participating in the Civil Air Patrol International Cadet Exchange, who are leaving New York tomorrow for return to their home countries.

Cadet Warrant Officer Richard Glinski of Ontario, Canada, representing the assembled group, said in his presentation speech that General LeMay was elected, based on his contribution to world peace for having built up USAF's Strategic Air Force as the greatest possible deterrent to any would-be aggressors.

On hand was last year's trophy winner, Maj. Charles E. Yeager, first pilot to break the sonic barrier, as well as Assistant Secretary of the Air Force, James T. Hill, Jr.; Lt. Gen. Leon Johnson, wearer of the Congressional Medal of Honor and CG of Continental Air Command.

Lt. Gen. Thomas D. White, Deputy Chief of Staff, Operations, USAF, spoke briefly, representing Secretary Thomas Finletter.

Civil Air Patrol's National Commander Maj. Gen. Lucas V. Beau, USAF, wished the youths a pleasant trip home, before the farewell banquet on the Astor Roof, and said in parting that he and all Civil Air Patrol members felt that as future air leaders of their respective countries, the youths who took part in the exchange would do much to insure understanding and peace among nations.

Largest OCS Class

A record-sized class will enter the Air Force Officer Candidate School at Lackland AF Base, Tex., on 15 Sept. A quota of 640 entrants has been approved, establishing the largest such class in Air Force history.

This will make the class, number 53A, larger than the previous class by 100 members. The June class, 52D, will be graduated in December. Class 53A will win commissions next March.

Approximately 40 members of the expected class will be women, it was indicated. This will mark a proportionate decrease in WAF personnel of the OCS, since previous female percentages have averaged about 10 per cent.

The new class will be the first to contain airmen with less than college educational backgrounds. Entrance requirements for the OCS recently were revised to make high school graduates eligible for admission.

New Heavy Recon Wing

The 111th Strategic Reconnaissance Wing (M) of the Pennsylvania Air National Guard will be returned to inactive status on 1 Dec., with those personnel remaining in service slated to form the cadre for a Heavy Reconnaissance Wing.

This is reported by Brig. Gen. C. J. Bondley, USAF, Commanding General of the 57th Air Division at Fairchild AFB, Wash.

The designation of the new heavy recon wing has not been revealed. It was stated that after conversion, the heavy wing will be transferred to another base, as yet unnamed.

POSTWAR MAIL RECORD

Army and Air Force postal crews in the European Command handled almost 26,000,000 pounds of mail during 1951—the highest amount for U. S. Forces in Europe since World War II.

Gen. Walsh Named Chairman

Maj. Gen. Robert L. Walsh, USAF, has been designated Chairman of the Inter-American Defense Board in Washington, D. C.

General Walsh will head an international organization composed of high-ranking military representatives of the United States and 20 Latin-American republics. The Inter-American Defense Board, created in March 1942, is dedicated to planning the collective self-defense of the American republics.

General Walsh succeeds Lt. Gen. Chas. L. Bolte, USA, who last month was designated Commanding General of the Seventh Army in Europe. Previous Board chairmen have been Generals S. D. Embick, Willis D. Crittendenberger, and Matthew B. Ridgway, all Army officers.

General Walsh, in addition to being Chairman of the Inter-American Defense Board, is Chairman of the Joint Brazil-U. S. Defense Commission and of the Joint Mexican-U. S. Defense Commission, Air Force and Steering Member of the Permanent Joint Board on Defense (Canada-U. S.), and serves as Director of the Continental United States Defense Planning Group.

General and Mrs. Walsh reside at 1416 Thirty-third Street, N.W. Their son, Lt. Robert LeGrow Walsh, USAF, recently completed a combat tour in Korea. Their daughter, Suzanne, was graduated last year from Georgetown Visitation School.

Named to ARDC Post

Col. Joseph R. Holzapple has been designated Assistant for Operational Readiness for the Air Research and Development Command, according to announcement by Lt. Gen. E. E. Partridge, Commanding General.

Colonel Holzapple succeeds Col. James H. Rothrock, who has been assigned as a student to the Industrial War College.

The Assistant for Operational Readiness maintains liaison with the operational commands of the Air Force in order to keep in close touch with their problems requiring research and development. In addition the using commands are kept fully informed on development trends. Colonel Frank Chappell is assistant to Colonel Holzapple.

Other assistants include Col. Harry B. Young, Deputy for Tactical Air; Col. W. S. Rader, Deputy for Strategic Air; Col. K. C. Diehl, Deputy for Training; and Maj. James Starr, Acting Deputy for Air Defense.

Casualty Notification

Air Force commanders have been reminded of their responsibility to write a circumstance letter within five days to the next of kin in instances of death or when personnel are missing. If the individual is married, a letter is sent to both his wife and parents.

Air Force officials have warned personnel that some relatives have been receiving an increasing number of false casualty reports by telephone and letter. The Air Force stressed that casualties are announced through initial telegram which is later confirmed by official letter.

Fill ATRC Staff Posts

The Air Training Command at Scott AFB, Ill., has announced the following assignments: Col. Francis X. Purcell, Jr., Deputy Chief of Staff, Materiel; Col. William H. Leach, Deputy Chief of Staff, Personnel; Col. Diran Arakelian, Staff Weather Officer; and Col. Hartwin A. Schulze, Air Surgeon.

AF Tells How Combat Pay Will Be Executed

The Air Force Finance Center at Denver, Colo., said this week that effective 1 July 1952 combat pay earned will be paid to Air Force personnel by field finance offices, and all combat pay earned prior to that date will be paid by the Center through the Air Adjutant General, Headquarters, United States Air Force, according to proposed regulations.

Five copies of the proposed regulation have been sent to each element of the Air Force Finance Network as advanced information for planning purposes, and will become effective immediately upon receipt of official notification.

The Air Force Finance Center will make payment, upon determination of facts by the Air Adjutant General, for all combat pay accrued during the period of June 1950 through June 1952 to Air Force personnel, both in the service and discharged. Survivors of Air Force personnel who served in combat and are deceased, and claimants in behalf of mentally incompetent Air Force personnel, should mail applications to the Air Adjutant General, Headquarters, United States Air Force, Attention: Personnel Records Service Division, Washington 25, D. C.

Application forms (DD Form 667, "Claim for Combat Pay") are currently being produced and will be available in field finance offices and post offices about mid-September.

Due to the difficult and time-consuming task involved in the examination of combat records necessary to determine entitlement to combat pay, delay in settlement of claims can be expected. Inquiries from claimants in regard to their claims will tend to further delay payment. Consequently, a claimant should not inquire as to the status of his claim for at least six months after it has been submitted. Full instructions for filling out and mailing the application are contained in DD Form 667.

Combat pay will be paid at the rate of $45 a month to members of the Armed Forces engaged in combat in the Korean combat zone. Service in Korea does not in itself entitle an individual to combat pay. To be entitled to combat pay during a month, the service member must have been subjected to hostile fire for not less than six days during the month while serving with a combat unit.

No service member will be entitled to both combat pay and incentive or special pay for aviation, submarine, parachute, or medical or dental duty during a month.

Air Defense Deputy

Col. Carroll W. McColpin was recently named Deputy for Operations for the Eastern Air Defense, with headquarters at Stewart AFB, N. Y. He was Director of Operations and Training for the Air Defense Command at Colorado Springs, Colo., prior to coming to EADAF Headquarters. In his new position, Col. McColpin will supervise all phases of air defense operations throughout 18 north-eastern and Great Lakes states.

Col. Henry To Ankara

Col. Cecil E. Henry, vice commander of Tenth Air Force, left Selfridge AFB, Mich., on 13 Aug. for assignment in Ankara, Turkey, as Chief of the Air Division for the American Military Mission for Aid.

Col. H. O. Allison, presently Assistant Vice Commander, will serve as Acting Vice Commander until a formal appointment is made.

Rename Air Depots

The Air Force is renaming its Air Depots as Air Force Depots. Thus, for example, Middletown Air Depot at Olmsted AFB, Pa., becomes Middletown Air Force Depot.

Air Sec'y. Promises Austerity Program

The Senate Armed Services Preparedness Subcommittee this week released a communication from Secretary of the Air Force Thomas K. Finletter—text here—which tells how a manpower program of "rigorous austerity" is now being accomplished throughout the Air Force.

Secretary Finletter, in a letter to Senator Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.), subcommittee chairman, stressed that with only a 14 per cent increase in military personnel, Air Force combat strength is being boosted by 50 per cent.

Mr. Finletter related how personnel spaces are being eliminated from various Air Force organizations. For example, 1930 officer spaces will be deleted effective 30 Aug. from 166 wing, airbase group, and support unit headquarters in the United States.

Text of Statement

Here is the text of Secretary Finletter's report to the Preparedness Subcommittee:

Dear Mr. Chairman:
Your Subcommittee's 40th Report forcefully sets forth the problem of manpower utilization as an area where the military services can and must effect major savings without impairing their combat effectiveness.

The Air Force is in complete agreement with both the report's appraisal of the Defense Department's manpower utilization problem and its recommendation for the appointment by the Secretary of Defense of a Manpower Committee to examine the use of manpower. The advisory committee now being established by Mr. Lovett for this purpose is assured of our complete and enthusiastic cooperation. At the same time, as you may know, I am requesting one or more outside civilian experts to advise me on the adequacy of the steps we have already taken to effect personnel savings in the Air Force. I believe this Air Force project will not result in duplicating the work of the committee of the Secretary of Defense but should support it with a vast amount of detailed work.

The Air Force has what I believe is a bold and constructive manpower policy. I am pleased that we can report, even at this time, reduced personnel authorizations which this policy has accomplished in the specific areas covered in your report. The Air Force manpower program is one of planned and rigorous austerity, carefully aimed at eliminating the personnel "fat" in the Air Force as fast as it can be found. Every job must pay its way in the sense of constituting necessary support for the Air Force mission.

Learned Report is Basis

The working basis of the Air Force personnel program is a manpower study, more widely known as the Learned Report, of which you are aware, which became effective as Air Force policy 25 March 1952. This report, in determining the minimum personnel requirements for the 143 wing force, established a series of manning standards which would allow for only a fourteen per cent increase in military personnel during the build-up of fifty per cent expansion in combat strength. If the same standards had been used for the 143 wing force as were used for the 80 combat wing program, the military personnel requirement would have been 1,700,000 men instead of an end strength of 1,210,000. As a result of our manpower policy, we have been in the process of critically analyzing and revising our yardsticks for the past several months. We are now applying these new yardsticks to the Air Force Personnel Structure. The real savings will be felt, however, only after all the tables of distribution and organization have been reduced under this program. Personnel who have been filling the deleted spaces will be channeled into other positions needed for the Air Force expansion. It is significant that during the build-up for the present fiscal year, the Air Force expects to operate under a military personnel ceiling of 1,061,000 which was the ceiling for fiscal year 1952.

Specialists were one of the personnel fields which the Learned Study as well as your report cited as susceptible to reduced authorizations. We have been attacking this area by examining the tables of distribution for the wing, airbase group, and support unit headquarters which man various Air Force bases in the United States. From these units, totaling 166, we have deleted 1,930 officer spaces, effective 30 Aug. 1952. Substantially all of the deleted spaces were for specialists. No longer is the wing headquarters authorized a public information, personal affairs, or food service officer. In the airbase group headquarters we eliminated, among others, the spaces for recruiting, personal affairs, special services, athletic program, information and education, historical, food service, and postal officers. These lowered yardsticks will now be applied across the board to all tables of distribution and organization through the Air Force. Some of the deleted functions have been made the additional duties of various officers; others have been abolished altogether.

Reduce Authorizations

As a result of our studies of the fighter and medium bombardment wings, we are now in the process of reducing the authorizations in those tables of organization, including many specialist positions specifically discussed in your report. We expect to delete approximately 120 spaces in the fighter wing. A total of 54, 4 personnel and 50 clerical, are specifically listed in your report. In the medium bombardment wing, authorizations will be reduced by approximately 68 spaces, including 17 personnel, 29 clerical and 6 administrative which you specifically cite. The personnel reductions in the bomb and fighter wings should result in savings of about 5,098 spaces.

We are now in the process of examining the transportation specialists in the fighter and medium bomb wings. As a result of a survey conducted at fifteen Air Force bases, we were able to reduce the authorizations for commercial type vehicles by about one-third without significantly reducing transportation effectiveness. Authorizations for the vehicles will be similarly lowered throughout the Air Force. We are now reviewing the personnel necessary for vehicles in all Air Force units, including fighter and medium bomb wings.

"Far From Satisfied"

I have discussed only the question of specialists in certain types of units. Our interest and concern do not stop there. While we have made real strides in the right direction, we are far from satisfied yet. We are going to continue to probe very deeply and thoughtfully into all aspects of the entire Air Force organizational structure. We take our responsibility in this field of personnel management and utilization very seriously indeed and hope to give further concrete proof of this. No thoughtful person can possibly disagree with the very cogent observation in your 40th Report that "our answer can only be superior weapons and superior organization." What is more, we share the feeling of urgency which is revealed in your 40th Report, which gives added emphasis to our efforts.

Your Subcommittee as a whole is making very real contributions toward bringing about an awareness of the importance and urgency of this large job we must do with respect to manpower. You will be interested to know that our combat commanders are being furnished with a copy of your 40th Report, together with a request for their suggestions as to where additional personnel savings can be made. Our staff agencies and Air Force Field Commanders are responding to the program with a wholehearted sense of cooperation and dedication.

We shall be pleased to keep you advised of the result of the program.

Sincerely yours,

Thomas K. Finletter

service component headquarters as at present.

16. What functions will be transferred from the present EUCOM Headquarters to General Handy's new Headquarters?

Answer: General Handy will take with him the functions of U. S. Military Representative Europe (MILREP) together with certain joint planning functions which are presently exercised by Headquarters, EUCOM.

17. Will General Handy deal entirely through General Ridgway on all U. S. matters for which he is responsible, or will he deal directly with U. S. service Departments and the Defense Department on some matters?

Answer: Unknown.

18. What will be the relationship between General Handy's Headquarters and the State Department agencies in Europe?

Answer: General Handy's Headquarters will represent the U. S. military in Europe in their relations with all U. S. governmental agencies in Europe including State Department agencies.

19. What will be the relationship between the present EUCOM Headquarters in Heidelberg, and such NATO organizations as ALFCE and SHAPE Headquarters?

Answer: The relationship between Headquarters USAREUR which remains in Heidelberg, with NATO organizations such as ALFCE and SHAPE Headquarters will remain substantially unchanged as the mission of that Headquarters will continue to be that of providing troops for the NATO organization.

20. Who will replace General Eddy as Seventh Army Commander?

Answer: Lt. Gen. Charles L. Bolte.

21. What Headquarters will be responsible for detailed implementation of the U. S. military aspects of the contractual agreements with the Germans?

Answer: The Headquarters USAREUR will retain U. S. military responsibilities in Germany including the responsibilities for implementation of the U. S. military aspects of the contractual arrangements upon the coming into effect of these arrangements.

22. Will General Handy have any tactical or training responsibilities?

Answer: General Handy's Headquarters will have responsibility primarily in the logistical and administrative fields. Wartime operational responsibilities together with the responsibilities for higher training (normally the responsibility of a unified command) will be primarily the responsibility of the NATO command organization.

23. What will be the remaining mission and functions of the new USAREUR Headquarters after General Handy's new Headquarters is established?

Answer: The new USAREUR Headquarters will perform the functions of the Senior U. S. Army Headquarters in Europe together with its functions as the U. S. Military Headquarters for Germany. Lt. General Eddy will succeed General Handy as Commander-in-Chief, USAREUR.

Pay Raise Plan

to study special and incentive pays.

The Senate Armed Services Committee, it is recalled, asked Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett to name a civilian commission to examine this broad problem and to submit its recommendations.

This commission would be similar to the Hook Commission, whose recommendations formed the basis for the Career Compensation Act.

Secretary Lovett has directed Assistant Secretary Rosenberg to coordinate the activities of the Commission.

Mrs. Rosenberg has named Brig. Gen. John A. Dabney, USA, to head a technical staff of representatives from each of the Services, which will assist the Commission. Other members of the staff include Col. J. H. Mangan, USAF, secretary; Capt. B. B. Custer, USN; Col. J. M. Masters, USMC; and Maj. R. D. Pearsall, USA, Comdr. A. W. Bright, a Navy aviator, is a part-time consultant to the staff.

Already, in advance of the naming of the Commission—expected momentarily—the staff has been compiling pertinent data.

This means that when the Commission, which probably will have five civilian members, is appointed, work can begin immediately. The likelihood is that the first meeting will be held at the Pentagon during September.

The Commission will, of course, lay out its own procedures and will receive all-out cooperation from the Department of Defense and all of the Services.

Undoubtedly, the new Commission will follow in large measure procedures of the Hook Commission, which in addition to holding hearings in Washington, D. C., made on-the-spot inspections at typical military installations.

The Senate Armed Services Committee has asked that the report of the Commission be ready early in the 83d Congress, so it can be expected that the group will waste no time in getting down to business.

General Dabney and his assistants having provided the basic information necessary to an inquiry into incentive and hazard pay, the Commission will be able quickly to move into what is conceded to be a highly complex problem.

Col. Ferris, Scott AFB C.O.

Col. Carlisle Iverson Ferris has been named commanding officer of Scott AFB, Ill., succeeding Col. Kenneth A. Cavenah, interim commander since the departure of Col. George W. Pardy last April.

Colonel Ferris recently returned from Italy where he served on the staff of Admiral Robert B. Carney, Commander in Chief, Naval Forces Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean.

Advertisers in the Army Navy Air Force Journal support the Armed Forces and are familiar with their requirements.

ARO Contract

The contract between the Department of the Air Force and ARO, Inc., for the operation of the Arnold Engineering Development Center will expire by its terms on 30 Sept. 1952.

Under the provisions of the 1953 Department of Defense Appropriations Act the continuation of a contractual arrangement between the Department of the Air Force and ARO, Inc., beyond 31 March 1953, is not permitted without the favorable action of the Congress.

With a view to enabling the Air Force to present this matter to the Congress so as to obtain the requisite Congressional expression as to the type and character of the operation of the Arnold Engineering Development Center, it is necessary for the Air Force to arrange for the operation of the Center for the period between 30 Sept. 1952, when the existing contract expires, and the time when the Congress can consider this matter. It has been decided by the Air Force to enter into preliminary negotiations with ARO, Inc., for a contract limited to this interim period.

Final decisions as to the type and character of operation will necessarily have to wait on presentation of the matter to the Congress.

Army Muster-Out Pay

The first mailing of mustering-out payments from the Finance Center, U. S. Army, on 15 Aug. was made up of more than 2,000 checks.

By the end of August, according to Maj. Gen. Bickford E. Sawyer, Chief of Finance, the Center should reach its production goal of 10,000 checks a day in payment of mustering-out claims from Army veterans.

At the first mailing date, the Center had received approximately 153,000 MOP claims, with an average daily receipt of 13,000.

So far, one third of all claims received and initially examined are necessarily being returned to applicants for additional information, or original Report of Separation from the Armed Forces of the United States. When Report of Separation (DD Form 214) is lost, a photostatic copy authenticated by the official seal of the U. S. Army Adjutant General is required. This may be obtained from the Demobilized Personnel Records Branch, Adjutant General's Office, St. Louis, Mo.

The Center's request to wait at least 90 days before inquiring about claims didn't stop one veteran in an eastern state. Just 48 hours after the President signed the Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act, he wrote, asking "Where is my MOP check?" But he, just like all other applicants, had to furnish the information requested on forms which are available at service organizations and which have been printed in many newspapers over the country.

"When properly integrated, and properly co-ordinated, the American military services, American scientific genius, and American industrial capacity can offer hope of restoration of real and enduring peace."—GENERAL J. LAWTON COLLINS.

Make Combat Pay Permanent. The complications and administrative delays in carrying out the provisions of the combat pay amendment to the appropriations bill are the direct result of the excessive delay in enacting it into law. When the 82d Congress convened in January of 1951 it had before it a complete plan approved by the Administration and submitted by the Department of Defense. Although no one spoke against the principle of combat pay and many gave it verbal support, it was not until more than a year and a half had elapsed that Congress finally approved it.

As enacted, the present combat pay applies solely to the current war in Korea. If our soldiers, sailors, airmen or marines should be called into action elsewhere, they would not come within its provisions and the entire legislative and administrative procedure would have to be gone through again.

Having recognized the principle of combat pay, Congress should promptly place it in the same permanent category as other hazard pays such as flight, parachute, submarine, and diving pay. In that way it would become operative whenever service men are exposed to the particular hazards. In fact, when the Department of Defense submitted the original request for legislation it stated that a study in that direction had been undertaken. We hope it will be put before the next Congress.

The Lag in Service Pay. It is heartening that official recognition has been made of the fact that the personnel of the Armed Services were short-changed when the 82d Congress readjusted pay schedules on a cost-of-living basis. Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg, Assistant Secretary of Defense, fresh from a visit to the troops in Europe, has stated, as reported in last week's issue of THE JOURNAL, that she does not believe the recent increase of approximately five per cent was sufficient in view of the fact that the cost of living has risen more than twice that much since military pay scales were last adjusted. She expressed the hope that when Congress reconvenes it will complete the adjustment. In her position as Assistant Secretary in charge of personnel matters, such an expression can produce practical results.

The Services' cost-of-living adjustment was only four per cent on base pay and 14 per cent on allowances which figures out to about five per cent for the active duty personnel and only four per cent for retired list. It was made effective 1 May 1952. Previously Congress had increased the pay of civilian government employees by a full ten per cent and made it retroactive to 30 June 1950. Scales in private industry and business also had increased substantially. The Services' short shrift appeared to have been the result of its coming up for consideration after the civilian pay increase and closer to the national elections where economy in government was bound to be an issue.

One cannot foretell the temper of the 83d Congress nor what it would do with a proposal to bring Service pay closer to par, but there is no doubt but that a positive, aggressive move in that direction by the Department of Defense would be a big boost to morale in the Armed Forces.

Social Security Benefits. Probably the least known of the rights earned by men and women who have served in the Armed Forces since 16 Sept. 1940 is that accruing to them under the amendments to the Social Security Act. Officials know that there are hundreds who are legally entitled to benefits but who are not getting them because of their ignorance of the law and the fact that payments under it are not automatic but must be applied for by the beneficiary. Because the Social Security laws are very complex and the conditions under which veterans are entitled to old-age and survivors' benefits are even more so, it is important that every man or woman who had military service and is not drawing military or Civil Service retired pay and who reaches the retirement age under Social Security should, when he applies for Social Security payments, make known that he was in the service and supply evidence to support it. More important is it that widows of all former Service men who had active duty since 1940 should inquire of their local Social Security office to see if they come within the purview of the Act and are thus entitled to its benefits.

10 Years Ago—

The communiques indicated that Stalin and his military advisers do not consider their situation hopeless, in spite of the losses in man power, equipment and territory.

50 Years Ago—

The practice of attending the families of naval officers on the part of the medical officers of the Navy on duty in Washington at the Naval Dispensary has been in vogue from time immemorial, and it seems a pity that a practice which in no way hampers the movements of officers detailed for duty at the dispensary and does not add materially to their labors should, at this late day, be deemed too heavy a tax on the Medical Corps of the Navy. It is hoped that the Secretary of the Navy will see his way to some other decision in favor of the families of naval officers on duty in Washington.

READERS' VIEWS

(Letters to the Editor must have author's name and address, but name will be omitted on publication if writer so states. Longer letters may be extracted for publication.)

Raw Deal For AF Cols.

Editor, THE JOURNAL:
Your editorial of Aug. 9, "Retention of Colonels," was excellent, but not up to date.

The 50 (AF) colonels referred to have received their letter that they retire on 31 July 1953.

As usual, the Air Force did not follow the intent of Congress—and is in for a lot of trouble as soon as it is known by the Congress and the public.

Imagine releasing 50 regular colonels with 30 years service, most of them holding down command jobs or positions calling for star rank!

I hate to see these experienced colonels get such a raw deal, especially since these colonels are the ones who built up the Air Force and who taught most of the brass in the Pentagon how to fly.

Is this a just reward for honorable service?

A RETIRED AF COLONEL.

Reserve Promotions

Editor, THE JOURNAL:
I am greatly interested in finding a definite type of procedure in connection with the promotion of the Reserve Officer on active duty, which is not satisfactorily explained in Bulletin No. 7, Armed Forces Reserve Act of 1952, Department of the Army, 16 July 1952.

At the present time I am assigned to a station in the Sixth Army Area. My AUS grade is Lt. Colonel. My reserve commission was dated 30 April 1947 as Lt. Colonel. Despite the fact that I have been on active duty several years previous to this, my designation was an assignment to a Composite Group in the First Army Area, as my legal address is in Boston.

Upon contacting the First Army Area seeking information in reference to promotion to the rank of Colonel, I was informed whereas my present active duty station was in the Sixth Army Area, that I would be considered with all other Reserve Officers in this Area, if and when the time came when there was a vacancy in that ORC grade.

I understand thoroughly if I were promoted to a Colonel in the ORC it would not have any bearing on my present AUS rate of Lt. Colonel as of 15 June 1951.

It is my opinion that suitable action should be started to promote officers similar to my case, to the next higher grade, if qualified, regardless of whether there is a vacancy or not, as it has a tendency to be a terrific let down to some of these Junior Officers when their five years is up and no one seems to know just what he should do to be advanced to the next higher grade, but he is well aware of the fact that there are appointments out of civilian life without previous military service to fill numerous vacancies for which he could have been considered.

LIEUTENANT COLONEL

USN Views USAF System

Editor, THE JOURNAL:
Reference "Readers' Views" of your 9 Aug. issue—a letter signed "Two Striper." If "Two Striper" thinks things are rough in the Navy it would do him good to consider the Air Force's ability to violate all provisions of the Officer Personnel Act.

I have in mind one Air Force Officer who entered service on 29 Dec. 1941 and was promoted to Colonel in 1951—age 31—permanent rank Major. This is not the exception—nor is it the rule in Air Force but it does portray one of the many inconsistencies existing in the "shoe-string advancement policy" of Air Force.

There are others existing in that there are 10 year Captains who had some of the nine year Colonels as students while aviation cadets. There are 18 month Majors (18 months from 1st Lt. to Major).

There is no promotion policy existing in Air Force consistent with the Officer Personnel Act, and Air Force officers on active duty will be quickest to concur with this statement.

I have had many months experience with Air Force through the Air Force-Navy Pilot Exchange Program plus duty with other joint Service organizations—plus I'm a "Two Striper" also. Never before have I realized how fortunate that I am in the Navy and can only wish that the aforementioned "Two Striper" can have the experience I have had to prove to him that there is only one US Navy and be totally grateful that he is a part thereof.

Please let him examine the personnel policy towards Air Force navigators. He will find, for sure, negligible promotions, long and thankless hours of labor, discrimination and subjected to any and all lowly details. Navigators returning from Korea less than a year ago are now being placed on so-called "levies" to be back.

Even though we in the Navy have seven year Lieutenants we are ahead of the game and should be proud that we have a stabilized program. Our program has been long standing and backed by years and years of experience which in the end will prove invaluable. Our pastures, though not as green as are backed by a good reserve that shall ever provide an equitable and fair program. Whereas other pastures are overwatered and overly green at present they are readily and ever subjected to bitter draught. "Against a bitter wind the sapling weeps and wails in tones unknown to the full grown tree."

LT. USN

COMMENTS on numerous subjects of interest to military personnel—from Mrs. Rosenberg's recent report on Europe to the peace talks in Korea—are currently being aired by the press. Typical remarks on five different subjects have been gleaned from several metropolitan dailies.

The Atlanta Constitution notes that North Korean premier Kim Il Sung has told his people that North Korea would be prepared to sign an armistice as a draw battle. But, says the paper, Americans and the free people of the world entered the war "to demonstrate their willingness to resist aggression and their intention to stop Communist expansion through force of arms. In that they have demonstrated their ability and willingness to achieve these aims, the war already has been a victory for the United Nations. No armistice could hide that fact."

The Washington Post, taking notice of the visit to Moscow by Chinese premier Chou En-lai, says "The time has long since passed when the haggling at Panmunjom over truce terms has had any meaning except as a peg for Communist propaganda. If there is to be a truce in Korea, that will be decided in Peiping or Moscow—assuming, of course, that the United Nations command will stand by its determination to make no more concessions on prisoner exchange."

Assistant Secretary of Defense Anna Rosenberg's statement that troops in Europe are enjoying "good but not plush" living accommodations is discussed by the Baltimore Sun. "It probably does no harm," the paper states, "to show the people of other countries that the United States believes in taking good care of its troops, provided it is not overdone. The dividing line is between 'good' and 'plush' living conditions. In Mrs. Rosenberg's opinion, the emphasis is on the right side of that line. Let's hope she is right."

Another topic is discussed by the Philadelphia Inquirer which is concerned by the fact that Selective Service is reaching the "bottom of the barrel" and the country "must sooner or later look to some such stable solution of the military manpower problem as universal military training and service." The paper declares, "the hard facts show the time the issue must be met is not far off."

The recent International Red Cross meeting in Canada is surveyed by the Christian Science Monitor: "The Reds have been trying to take the 'cross' (symbol of its humanitarian purpose) out of the Red Cross. But despite their injection of rancorous political issues into the sessions of the International Red Cross just concluded at Toronto, the conference has maintained its neutrality and has ended with a pledge to continue its traditional humanitarian role."

The Louisville Courier-Journal goes farther afield with comments on the recent Greek-Bulgarian clash: "The western nations must hope that this is only another of those tentative, probing moves by which the Communist world tries endlessly to find some weak point, some soft spot in which to drive aggression's wedge."

New S.E. Europe Allied Command

ALTHOUGH the new Southeast Europe Allied command is subordinate to Admiral Robert B. Carney's Southern Sector of General Matthew B. Ridgway's European command, its remoteness from other elements of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's growing establishment is such as to call for separate and firmly established headquarters. These are to be set up at Izmir (Smyrna) on the Asian coast of the Aegean Sea—which one may note happens not to be in Southeast Europe at all, but near enough to render the fact unimportant.

The commander is to be Lt. Gen. Willard G. Wyman, lately commander of the IX Corps in Korea. His tactical air support will have an advance command post across the Aegean, at Salonika, and for the time being will be provided by Maj. Gen. David M. Schlatter, USAF, who thus has a double role; General Schlatter will continue to maintain his principal headquarters as Admiral Carney's air deputy for the entire Southern Sector at Florence, Italy, in fairly easy reach of Salonika. Significantly the two establishments bestride the Dardenelles.

The arrangement is subject to modification if the basic situation in the eastern Mediterranean changes materially. Because there never has been a full agreement on the complete role of the British Mediterranean fleet so far as the Southern Sector is concerned, and because the original hope for knitting other Middle East states with Greece and Turkey in a regional command under NATO has never come close to fulfillment, and finally because neither Greece nor Turkey was disposed to place its large ground forces under whatever Italian ground deputy Admiral Carney might name, this limited Southeast Command proved to be the best temporary arrangement.

Under it, the considerable land forces of the two newest NATO members will maintain their own national integrity, their respective commanders being under General Wyman who, in turn, is under Admiral Carney. The two large American Military Advisory Groups (headed by Maj. Gen. W. H. Arnold in Turkey and Maj. Gen. Charles E. Hart in Greece) will continue to function in unchanged roles. It will be recalled that these highly efficient groups, which are properly credited with large responsibility for the rapid modernization of the Greek and Turkish army tactics, maintain advisors reaching down to the battalion.

The Near and Middle East situations, apart from these timely developments affecting two large armies in a geographically strategic position, continue simmering. Our recent friendly relations with Yugoslavia, plus Tito's recent overtures to Greece, appear to have encouraged the western diplomats to make some interesting representations to Tito on another important relationship. British, French and American ambassadors this week visited the Yugoslav chief at his summer residence and urged his consideration of a modus vivendi with Italy affecting Trieste, which has been a threatening trouble-center for many years, and is in worse state than usual since the recent Zone "A" elections. The interest is not wholly economic nor wholly diplomatic; a look at the map makes it clear that any future defense of the gap leading from Austria and hence the West's defense of the Adriatic itself would call for quick and efficient cooperation between the Italian and the Yugoslav military commands, which would have to be planned far in advance.

At the east end of the Mediterranean the week afforded ample developments but no immediately visible results. Reference is to those in Iran where the West's cause makes no headway calling for cheers, and in Egypt, where the vigor of the army's strong-arm government is more discernible than its ultimate course. One must also note Palestine, where Prime Minister Ben-Gurion volunteered a suggestion of cooperation with the West. That young nation's enterprising army (now facing 2½-year compulsory service rather than the present 2-year period) proved its merit in the late war with the Arab League; to this extent Ben-Gurion's suggestion is interesting. But it must always be remembered that at present any affiliation with Palestine is likely to provoke antagonism from the entire Arab League. It is most unlikely that any save the most general forms of economic aid (as at present) would be advisable until those Near East passions are cooled.

A self-stoked fire of protest by the Communist press against certain phases of MAIN BRACE—involving "threats" in the western Baltic—has failed to raise the temperature of Allied personnel planning that important land-sea-air maneuver scheduled for September 13-25. The exercise, involving elements of the Atlantic Command and the European

More Arms Aid May Follow Sino-Soviet Talks

THE arrival in Moscow this week of Chou En Lai, premier and foreign minister of Red China, accompanied by a large staff of military, diplomatic and economic advisers, for a series of top-level discussions with Soviet leaders, took western statesmen by surprise. A spokesman of the State Department regarded the conference as a periodical, routine meeting of Communist allies. However, unofficial observers, noting the size and composition of the retinue of the Chinese premier, were inclined to look upon it as much more significant. It was recalled that a similar conference of Chinese and Russian leaders at Moscow in 1950, at which the current alliance was effected, was followed within six months by the Red invasion of South Korea.

Reports from Moscow, passed by Russian censors, outline a number of probable topics for discussion at the conference now in progress. They include the possibility of a Korean truce, or an extension of the conflict; the general subject of Soviet-Chinese interests in the Far East, particularly those arising out of the western peace treaty with Japan, and future relations of China and Russia with that country; threats to peace in Southeast Asia, and relations with India; European developments, especially those affecting Germany; and expansion of Chinese industrialization, with a strengthening of economic and technical assistance provided by Russia. The present alliance between Russia and Red China is directed specifically against the possibility of a resurgence of Japanese militarism as a threat to the Chinese mainland. However, it has served to aid the Reds in the prosecution of the Korean war, in which Communist forces have been largely dependent on Russia for aircraft, tanks, artillery, motor fuel, and numerous miscellaneous items of military equipment.

The inclusion of top-ranking military leaders on Premier Chou's staff would indicate that further Russian arms aid is being sought by the Chinese Communists. This might indicate that intensification of the Korean conflict is planned with possible abandonment of further efforts to obtain a truce, or it might merely mean that the Reds are seeking more rapid replacement of materiel lost in the disastrous fighting in Korea. Speculation as to devious purposes of Communist negotiations is likely to prove fruitless, as the long-range aims may be substantially different from those which may be apparent or announced. Quite certainly any really important agreements arising from the current talks will be kept secret. One of the more obvious matters for discussion will be the relinquishment of control by Russia of the naval base at Port Arthur and of the Changchun railway, which by the terms of the 1950 treaty revert to Red China this year.

THE FIRST NATIONAL CONGRESS of the Communist party of the Soviet Union since 1939 has been called to meet at Moscow on 5 Oct. The announced purpose of this unusual action is to provide for a new five-year plan to increase Russian industrial production by 70 per cent, and to make certain organizational changes in the Communist party. One of the changes would replace the politburo with an even more powerful presidium. Observers were at a loss to speculate on the real significance of the call for an all-party congress, but recalled ruefully that the last such meeting immediately preceded the ill-starred German-Russian alliance, which was closely followed by World War II. One report given general currency is that the party organization is to be strengthened, with a view to the gradual retirement of the aging Marshal Joseph Stalin, in favor of Deputy Prime Minister Georgi Malenkov, generally regarded as his hand-picked successor.

A PLENARY SESSION OF THE KOREAN TRUCE conference was held on Tuesday, 19 Aug., at Panmunjom, and proved as fruitless as many of the previous sessions. An adjournment was taken for another week. Although no progress was made and the usual harsh accusations were exchanged, Maj. Gen. David M. Schlatter, jr., senior United Nations delegate, said he was still convinced that the Communists want a truce, but were sticking at the price they would have to pay in agreeing to voluntary, rather than compulsory repatriation of Red prisoners of war. However, even the most optimistic expect little from the armistice discussions at Panmunjom until the current high-level talks between Russia and Red China at Moscow are concluded.

There has been some expectation that Russia might have a new Korean peace proposal ready for presentation at the October meeting of the General Assembly of the United Nations. There has also been some surmise that the Communist tactic will be to continue to stall the peace negotiations until the new national administration takes office in the United States next January, on the theory that a possible change in the American Korean policy might result in truce terms more favorable to the Reds than can now be obtained.

THAT THE RECENT ACCELERATED AIR PRESSURE in Korea is hurting the Reds is evident in frantic appeals by the Peiping radio for world denunciation of the use of napalm by Allied planes raiding North Korean installations. It is charged that the flames of the jellied gasoline are inflicting tremendous casualties on civilians. Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett this week characterized such accusations as "tiresome propaganda." He pointed out that fire has been used as a weapon of warfare since pre-biblical days, and the charge that it is directed willfully against civilians is disproved by the fact that prior warnings were given, at considerable risk to our success, to civilians to keep away from designated military targets. Secretary Lovett said our planes would continue to use napalm against enemy installations.

There were some indications this week that the recent overturn of the Farouk government of Egypt might open an avenue for amicable negotiation of the long-standing trouble between Israel and the Arab states. During the course of a debate in the parliament of Israel, Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion referred in a friendly manner to Maj. Gen. Mohammed Naguib, who led the successful military coup that deposed King Farouk of Egypt, and said that co-operation with Israel would help Egypt solve her political, social, and economic problems, and raise her international status. Mr. Ben-Gurion said that most of the members of the United Nations strongly favored peace between Israel and the Arab nations, because peace in the Middle East would promote world understanding and advance the cultural, economic, and social interests of the countries concerned. However, he warned that Israel could not rely exclusively on the world organization for protection, but must maintain military preparedness, along with a desire for peace.

SERVICE NEWS AND GOSSIP

Air Force 'Ground Soldiers'—The Air Force early next year will launch a program to train 7,000 officers and airmen a year to defend air bases against sabotage and local ground attack.

An Air Base Defense Training Center will open at Parks AFB, Calif., on 5 Jan., when a basic airman course will begin. Subsequently, as instructors become available, there will be an advanced airman course for NCO's and a basic officer and advanced officer classes. The basic courses will be 12 weeks long, advanced courses, nine weeks.

Defensive infantry tactics and weapons will be stressed, with secondary importance given to other Air Police functions. The Center, which will be fully operative by next summer, will graduate 7,000 officers and airmen a year, who in turn will provide instruction at base level. The Center, it was said, will not be able to meet personnel training requirements for AP's.

The last two weeks of the lower three courses will be spent in the maneuver area of Beale AFB, Calif., where aviation engineers are trained. The Advanced Officer Class will spend the last week in the field.

At the present time, Air Force personnel assigned to Air Police work receive training at the Army's Provost Marshal General Centre at Camp Gordon, Ga. The Air Force participation in the Camp Gordon program will end about the first of the year.

Overseas Overhead—A survey is now underway in Europe to determine whether reductions are possible in the command structure of NATO and the U. S. military organizations. This was reported by Assistant Secretary of Defense Anna M. Rosenberg upon her return from an inspection trip to Europe.

She said that "we have set up a big command structure, NATO and our own command. I think we have to take a look to see whether our overhead is large, or whether we have more headquarters or more commands than we need."

She noted that staff organizations in Europe are growing very fast, "and when you grow fast, it is time to take a new look." Mrs. Rosenberg told reporters at a press conference late last week that surveys are now being made to re-evaluate the manpower situation "in this very complicated NATO command structure. In our own commands and communications," she added, "we have got to cut down on our use of manpower. That is true here in the United States, too," Mrs. Rosenberg related.

Record of 82d Congress—Official statistics published this week reveal that 12,062 bills and 2,102 Resolutions were submitted to Congress during the two sessions of the 82d Congress. Of the public bills, 594 were enacted into law. Of this number, 134 were military in nature, including 7 Resolutions, 11 Private bills, and 33 affecting veterans.

Military nominations confirmed to temporary or permanent grades were as follows: Army, 13,202; Air Force, 12,463; Navy, 13,065; Marine Corps, 3,485. No nominations in the Armed Forces were withdrawn or rejected, but 144 remained unconfirmed at the conclusion of the 82d Congress.

SGO Group To FECOM—Col. Harold W. Glatly, MC, Chief, Personnel Division, Col. Clement F. St. John, MC, Chief, Medical Plans and Operations, and Lt. Col. Inez Haynes, ANC, Chief of the Army Nurse Corps Section of the Personnel Division, all from the Office of the Army Surgeon General, will depart 2 Sept. for a month's visit to the Far East Command. The group will study personnel, nursing and operational activities of hospitals and other field units in Japan, Korea, Okinawa and Hawaii.

Sheep Safety—A novel safety measure has been introduced at Ft. Sill, Okla., where 900 sheep have been put out to pasture on a four-month trial basis. The post engineer, Col. James R. Rorabaugh, reports that the sheep will keep the grass in the post ammunition dump short enough to avoid danger from fire. The mowing job has cost about $40 a day by mechanical means.

The sheep are able to eat grass growing around the base of ammunition stockpiles—a difficult location for mowers to cut.

In addition to the safety factor, leasing of grazing rights brings extra income to the post, one-seventh of which is leased to area farmers.

NCO's to School—Non-commissioned officers at Lackland AFB, Tex. holding grades of staff sergeant or above will be required to take a 15-week course while carrying out regular duties in order to maintain eligibility for their stripes. The course is designed to improve "leadership of those who have great responsibility in the Air Training Command," a Lackland announcement said.

Conduct Consciousness—The Combat Training Command at the Army's Infantry Center, Ft. Benning, Ga., has launched a conduct consciousness program which may be taken up by other Army units. The aim is to maintain high standards of off-duty conduct.

Here's how the program works. Each man going on leave or pass is given a special pamphlet which emphasizes that "because you are a soldier, you are always noticeable in public, and the Armed Forces will be judged by your conduct." Each soldier is told that he is a "walking billboard" advertising the Army.

When a soldier goes on pass or leave, a "reminder card" is attached to his orders. The card reads: "While on leave, you are a billboard for the Army. Be courteous, alert and neat, respectful and proud."

When a man returns from leave or pass, he fills out a mimeographed form, answering a few questions as to whether or not he observed anything while on pass that reflects discredit upon the Armed Forces. The form then is forwarded to the commanding officer for future use.

Army Reserve Promotion Reg.—The Section 5 Committee of the Army will study a tentative draft of the new regulation on Reserve promotions. Following the action of the advisory group on Reserve and National Guard affairs, which will meet early in September, the regulation probably will be sent to the Department of Defense for approval.

The likelihood is that it may be several months before the regulation is published.

MEMO

To Journal Readers

...Pentagon will make strong bid in the '54 budget for funds to build RECREATIONAL FACILITIES, particularly overseas. Back from Europe, Asst. Sec'y. Rosenberg comments: "In too many places we have got to have, in lieu of economy, enough normal off-duty facilities." ***In recent years Congress has repeatedly SLASHED REQUESTS for welfare and recreation activities.

...Intriguing off-duty aside is fact that at White Sands Proving Ground, N. M., favorite gathering spot for Army enlisted men is the Navy EM Club.

...Preparatory plans have been drafted for construction of a HELIPORT at the Army's Ft. Eustis, Va., Transportation Center. ***Contract probably will be let next summer.

...A keen Army-Marine Corps rivalry will highlight the High Power Rifle Championships at Ft. Benning, Ga., 27 Aug.-2 Sept. This is the first year that an official TEAM CHAMPION will be named.

...Heretofore restricted to civilian and military general hospitals, institute RESIDENCY TRAINING for doctors will be extended to two AF base hospitals, Lackland AFB, Tex., and Scott AFB, Ill. ***Likelihood is that the training will be given later at other AF hospitals.

...Work is progressing on the 1953 Defense legislative program, but so far there's been no decision as to UMT. Nothing is likely to be decided until AFTER THE ELECTIONS.***At the moment, it's a good bet that no UMT measure, with a fund request, will be included in the LEGISLATIVE PACKAGE now being bundled for delivery to the Bureau of the Budget.

...An already serious shortage of officers with engineering training is becoming increasingly acute as RESERVE OFFICERS complete tours of duty. The release of Reserve specialists, notably the engineers, is going to give Defense officials a man-sized manpower headache.

AF Pubinfo Mission—Secretary of the Air Force Thomas K. Finletter, who has not always emphasized the importance of public information activities, has sent a message to commanders and public information officers declaring that "the public information function, as a necessary and vital obligation to the people, must be given full support and cooperation by all within the Air Force."

It is recalled that during fiscal year 1953 budget hearings, Secretary Finletter conceded that drastic slashes in the Air Force public information program could be made. At that time, THE JOURNAL reported that morale among officers who had been awarded public information specialist ratings was in jeopardy.

Mr. Finletter says now that while few can be engaged in public information activities, "they must produce the best possible results." Mr. Finletter concluded: "Lasting public confidence in an organization is possible only if that organization merits public support. I firmly believe the Air Force merits the nation's confidence. I am sure that accurate and responsible public information will enable the nation to have that confidence."

History of Marine Aviation—The Marine Corps has passed out 71,000 complimentary copies of Robert Sherrod's "History of Marine Corps Aviation in World War II," but more than 3,000 copies had been returned by 30 June for a better address. In some instances, addressees refused to accept the book, not realizing it was a gift copy. Consequently, Marine Headquarters requests that personnel who have not received their copy of the history make written application, including the unit in which they served, dates attached, full name and serial number and address to which the book should be sent. Applications should be mailed to Capt. Edna Loftus Smith, Marine Corps Aviation (OP-52), National Defense Building, Washington 25. D. C. Personnel eligible for free copies are those who served with Marine aviation between 8 Sept. 1939 and 2 Sept. 1945, who received an engagement star, or their survivors.

Bread and Water for Marines—The authority of Marine commanders to confine personnel on diminished rations or on bread and water as the result of offenses committed under the Uniform Code of Military Justice, has been explained by Marine Headquarters. Such confinement "as a nonjudicial punishment," Headquarters states, "is authorized only for enlisted personnel who are attached to or embarked in a vessel," and it may not exceed three consecutive days. "Confinement on diminished rations or bread and water," Headquarters continues, "may be adjudged by summary, special or general court martial either at sea or on shore stations. Where confinement on bread and water is adjudged, a full ration is required on every 4th day or oftener. Duration of such confinement may not exceed 30 days."

SERVICE SOCIAL NEWS

MORE than 300 have received invitations to the "at home" of Walter Reed Army Medical Center's Commanding General and Mrs. Paul H. Streit this Sunday, 24 Aug. The fete, which will honor recently assigned duty officers to Walter Reed and their wives, will be from four to six-thirty P.M. Assistant hosts-and-hostesses-at-large will be the Chiefs of Walter Reed Services and Divisions and their wives. This is another in a series of "at homes" given by General and Mrs. Streit to extend a formal welcome to the new officers and their wives.

Col. and Mrs. Millard C. Young were honored at a cocktail party given by Air Resupply and Communications Service officers and wives, at Walter Reed Officers' Mess on 15 Aug.

Colonel Young, former ARCS Commander, was recently transferred to duty as Chief, Psychological Warfare Division for Headquarters USAF in the Pentagon.

The Navy Supply Corps Officers Wives' Club of Washington will hold its opening luncheon for the 1952-53 season at 12 o'clock on Tuesday 9 Sept. at the Army-Navy Country Club.

Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. W. A. Evans, King 8-6438; Mrs. J. H. Batchelder, Wisconsin 0623; Mrs. C. Wiedman, jr., Jefferson 3-8778; or Mrs. C. L. Henn, jr., at Adams 6577.

Mrs. Roy H. Parker, wife of the retired Chief of Chaplains of the Army, left Washington Monday en route to join her husband, who left a few days earlier to begin his duties as Professor of History at William Jewell College, Mo. Accompanying Mrs. Parker was their daughter, Carlene, whose temporary hospitalization at the Walter Reed Army Medical Center had delay earlier departure of her parents.

The first reunion of Class 41-G, USAF, was held in the Ebony Room at the Officers' Club, U. S. Naval Gun Factory, Washington, D. C., on 15 Aug. This meeting was attended by class members living in the Washington area and their ladies.

After an enjoyable cocktail hour and a tasty turkey dinner, Maj. Tom L. Barrow, Chairman of the First Reunion, gave a few words of greeting. Each member of the class then spoke briefly. Lt. Col. Raymond W. Lucia proposed a toast to the members of Class 41-G who have given their lives for their country. Following a round-table discussion, it was decided to hold an Anniversary Banquet in Washington on 26 Sept. 1952. That date will be the 11th anniversary of the graduation of Class 41-G from USAF Advanced Flying Schools. An effort will be made to advise all members of the class of this Anniversary Banquet, for which Lt. Col. Robert H. Ficke will be chairman.

The committee in charge of the First Reunion consisted of: Maj. Tom L. Barrow, Chairman, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Robert H. Ficke, and Mrs. Lois Keefe.

The First Reunion was attended by Class 41-G members and their guests, as follows, listed by their Advanced Flying Schools:

Maxwell AFB, Ala.: Maj. Tom L. Barrow, Miss Patricia Coulter, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Arthur L. Cushing, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Robert H. Ficke, Col. Royal Hatch, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Thomas W. Keefe, jr., and Mr. Charles H. Shuff, who is Deputy to the Assistant Secretary of the Air Force.

Craig AFB, Ala.: Col. and Mrs. John F. Britton, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Hill, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Raymond W. Lucia.

Kelly AFB, Tex.: Col. and Mrs. John G. Glover.

The West Point Wives' Club of Jan. 1943 held their monthly meeting on 12 Aug. at the Army-Navy Country Club. Mrs. Adrian St. John presided in the absence of Mrs. Wm. D. Neale, president.

Plans were discussed for a class picnic to take place in September. After the meeting, luncheon was served. The hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. O. W. De Gruchy, jr., and Mrs. F. X. Kane.

MRS. CHARLES EDWARD DOLSBERRY, IV
was Miss Betty Jeanne Holstrom, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Helmer A. Holstrom, before her marriage on 9 Aug. at Ft. Leavenworth, Kans. to Mr. Dolsberry.

MISS MARCIA MAE MILLER
daughter of Col. and Mrs. LeRoy B. Miller, will be married at Ft. Totten, N. Y., on 27 Sept. to Lt. Thomas J. Hoar, USA.

MRS. MARION BARTON STEWART
was Miss Martha Jean Beasley, daughter of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Rex W. Beasley, USA, before her marriage on 12 Aug. at Ft. Monroe, Va., to Mr. Stewart.

After luncheon several of the wives stayed for an afternoon of bridge. The prizes were won by Mrs. J. C. Laaen, jr., and Mrs. E. A. Thatcher, sister-in-law of Mrs. De Gruchy.

The next meeting of the Wives' Club will be held on 9 Sept.

Lt. Col. and Mrs. Fred C. Baker have announced the adoption of a son, Fred, Junior. The new member of the family was the recipient of many beautiful gifts when Mrs. Baker was guest of honor at a shower given at the Fitzsimons Army Hospital officers club. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Bruce G. Duncan, Mrs. Eulice L. Sessum, Mrs. John W. Sheldon, and Mrs. Harold O. Brickell.

Weddings and Engagements

MR. and Mrs. C. Newbold Taylor of Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, announce the engagement of his daughter, Miss Anne Wain Taylor, to Col. Robert C. Richardson, 3d, USAF, (USMA '39), son of Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, USA-Ret., and the late Mrs. Richardson.

Miss Taylor, who is a graduate of the Shipley School and of Vassar College, is a member of the Acorn Club and The Welcome Society in Philadelphia.

In World War II, Colonel Richardson served as commander of a composite group at Ascension Island and later commanded the 375th Fighter Group during the last months of the war. He is presently assigned to duties with SHAPE in connection with the development of the West German Army. Colonel Richardson's grandfather was the late Judge Elbert E. Farman, formerly the U. S. Judge on the International Court at Alexandria, Egypt.

Miss Phoebe Ann Holmes, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Lester L. Holmes, USA, of Ft. Bragg, N. C., became the bride of 1st Lt. John Norden Webb, USMC, on 10 Aug. in the Protestant Chapel at Camp Lejeune, N. C., Lt. Comdr. Schneck, USN, officiating. Lieutenant Webb is the son of Mrs. Gladys V. Webb of Lakeside, Calif., and the late Mr. Webb.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of French organdy with a bouffant skirt laced with vine-like leaves of white and blush pink. Her finger-tip veil was of palest blush illusion, falling from a small shell of blush pink lace trimmed on either side with tiny pearl orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white asters on a white net fan covered in tiny white tube roses. The bride was attended by Miss Edith Moser of Arlington, Va.

Serving the bridegroom as best man was 1st Lt. Thomas Palmer, also of Camp Lejeune, and the ushers were Maj. Antony Eppin and 1st Lts. Sam Stumbo, Kenneth Turner, Walter Gagne, Richard Sheridan, Fredrick Leder, Heman Redfield III, and Charles Kennington.

Mrs. Webb attended The Principia College, Elmhurst, Ill., and received her Bachelor of Arts degree from the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg, Va. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma. Lieutenant Webb is a graduate of San Diego State College where he was affiliated with Phi Kappa Tau fraternity.

After a reception at the Officers' Club, the couple left for their cross-country drive to Camp Pendleton, Calif., where they will remain until Lieutenant Webb leaves for overseas assignment.

The bride's father is currently serving as Commanding Officer of the 6th Radio Broadcasting and Leaflet Group at The Psychological Warfare Center, Ft. Bragg.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Ramsey Diggs of Washington, D. C., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Alice Muse Diggs, to Lt. Charles Kilbourne Nulsen, jr., USA, son of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Charles K. Nulsen, U. S. Army Ret., of San Antonio, Tex. An October wedding is planned.

Miss Diggs is an alumna of Holton Arms, Bradford Junior College and McGill University. She was presented to society at a reception at the Sulgrave Club in November, 1947. She is a member of the Junior League of Washington.

Lieutenant Nulsen graduated from Episcopal High School, Alexandria, Va., attended Cornell University, graduated from the U. S. Military Academy, class of '49. He is now stationed in Trieste, Italy, on duty as Aide de Camp to the Commanding General, United States Troops in Trieste.

Capt. Samuel B. Bennett (ChC), USN, performed the wedding ceremony which united Miss Joan Marie Mariner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Mariner of San Diego, Calif., and Ens. Robert Allen Shaid, son of Capt. Henry C. Shaid, USN, and Mrs. Shaid of Great Lakes, Ill., on 11 Aug. in the chapel at the U. S. Naval Hospital, San Diego.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father and she was attractively gowned in white lace, ballerina length. A becoming lace cap held the soft folds of a veil which fell just to her shoulder.

Miss Jeanne Kloss was the maid of honor. Ens. Kenneth Masters was the best man with Ens. Kenneth Zerda, C. Smith, Geo. Haugland and Wm. Diehl ushering.

Ensign Shaid and his bride left immediately after the ceremony for Hunters Point, Calif., where the officer will have temporary duty. Mrs. Shaid, a member of one of San Diego's pioneer families, attended South Dakota State College. Her husband received his degree from the University of Virginia where he affiliated with Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

Mrs. Clarence E. Jackson of Spokane, Wash., is announcing the engagement of her daughter, Phoebe Ann, to Maj. Arvid P. Croonquist, jr., the son of Col. and Mrs. Arvid P. Croonquist, of Menlo Park, Calif.

Phoebe, whose father was the late Col. Clarence E. Jackson, graduated from Georgetown Visitation Junior College in Washington, D. C., and is a member of the Spokane Junior League.

Major Croonquist is a graduate of the Class of January 1943, U. S. Military Academy. He is currently en route to his new station at Fairbanks, Alaska.

Miss Barbara Jane Simpler, daughter of Capt. Leroy Coard Simpler, USN, and Mrs. Simpler of Pensacola, Fla., was married 9 Aug. to Lt. (jg) Roland Muir Bendel, USN. The marriage vows were spoken at a candlelight service in the chapel at the Naval Air Station, San Diego, Calif. Capt. S. B. Bennett (ChC), USN, officiated.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of brocaded satin, fashioned with off-shoulder neckline, fitted bodice and full skirt. The double tiers of a tulle veil were held in place by a satin cap embroidered in pearls and her ornaments were pearl earrings and a necklace of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. A cascade of orchids and white stephanotis completed her bridal attire.

The bride's attendants were Misses Goldie Marcus of Long Beach, Janet Ayers Jameson of Santa Barbara, Sally Marley of Coronado, Mrs. Peter Huntsman-Trout of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Frank Lombardi of San Francisco. Jack Williamson of Niles, Calif., was the best man and acting as ushers were brother officers, Lts. S. A. Bennett, R. A. Hamre, Roger Carlquist, R. A. McMillan, Paul Corrigan and Ens. Al Ostrand.

Following a reception for service and civilian friends, the bride and groom left for Carmel. Lieutenant Bendel, holder of the Distinguished Service Cross, has served two tours of duty in Korea and now he will attend the U. S. Naval Post Graduate School at Monterey. He is a graduate of the U. and from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Civil Engineering.

During World War II he served with the Corps of Engineers in the Pacific theatre of operations, participating in the Northern Solomon Islands, New Guinea, and northern and southern Philippines campaigns. He also served 11 months in Korea with the 70th Tank Battalion of the First Cavalry Division. Lieutenant Wyruchowski recently was graduated from the Advanced Course of the Armor School, Ft. Knox, Ky., and is now assigned to the Engineer School, Ft. Belvoir, Va.

After 1 Sept. Lt. and Mrs. Wyruchowski will be at home at Ft. Belvoir.

A recent wedding which took place at the Trinity Episcopal Church, Davenport, Iowa, was that of Miss Joyce Marilyn Ihms and Mr. Martin Eugene Griffin, jr. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Ihms of Davenport, and parents of the bridegroom are Brig. Gen. Martin E. Griffin, MC, USA, of Brooke Army Hospital, Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., and Mrs. Griffin.

Wearing a gown of white Chantilly lace designed with a sheer yoke finished with a small lace collar, its skirt falling into a cathedral train, the bride was given in marriage by her father. Her French illusion veil was caught to a Juliet cap of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of white orchids flown from Hawaii for the occasion. Miss Bonnie Smith was maid of honor and Mr. John J. Hancock served as best man.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Griffin are Phi Beta Kappa members. They will be at home this Fall at 511 S. Johnson St., Iowa City, Iowa, where the bridegroom will enter his Junior year at the Medical School of the State University of Iowa.

Joanne Elizabeth McKeon, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Francis H. A. McKeon, of Ft. Hood, Tex., and formerly of Jackson Heights, N. Y., became the bride of Edward M. Cummings, of 40-12 Ithaca Street, Elmhurst, N. Y., at a nuptial Mass ceremony in the Post Chapel at Ft. Totten, Bayside, N. Y., on Saturday 12 July.

The Rev. Vincent T. Swords, of Greensboro, N. C. and former Army Chaplain officiated at the wedding and celebrated the Nuptial Mass. A reception followed at the Officer Club on the Post.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of white Princess lace with a fitted bodice and full nylon tulle skirt. Her veil fell from a seed pearl cap and she carried a prayer book with white orchids and stephanotis.

Mary Rose McKeon, sister of the bride was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Mary Heavv, of Jackson Heights, N. Y., Amy McKav, of Rutherford, N. J. and Margaret Mitty, of the Bronx, all former classmates of the bride at the College of Mount St. Vincent, Riverdale on the Hudson.

Harry Cummings of Jackson Heights served his brother as best man. Richard F. Cummings of Elmhurst, another brother of the groom, James J. McKeon, of Stanford Calif., a brother of the bride and John Flattery of Jamaica, were ushers.

Mr. Cummings is a junior at Georgetown University School of Dentistry, in Washington, D. C. and is a graduate of St. Johns University in Brooklyn, N. Y.

His bride is a teacher at the Forest Grove Elementary School, in Silver Spring, Md. She received a Bachelor of Arts degree from Mount St. Vincent.

After a motor trip through Canada the couple will live at 8207 Garland Ave., Takoma Park, Md.

"Operation Distaff" Gives Vital Role To Women In Panama Civil Defense

OF widespread interest to the "other halves" of Armed Forces personnel has been the recent launching of "Operation DISTAFF" in the Panama Area. Sponsored by the joint Army-Navy-Air Force Disaster Control Center, the operation was organized for the purpose of securing 100 per cent volunteer participation in Disaster Control (civil defense) on military installations in the Canal Zone. To achieve the basic aims, a widespread network of ladies' groups (DISTAFF Councils) has been erected to reach all levels—from the Senior governing body to small neighborhood groups.

With a marked sense of responsibility, the ladies of the Panama Area have accepted this extensive undertaking, and are fully determined to reach and maintain the established goal. Mrs. Horace L. McBride, President of the Senior Council, wife of Lieutenant General McBride, Commander in Chief, Caribbean Command, in commenting on the operation, stated the task before the ladies was not only an "interesting one, but also one of vital importance." The whole operation highlights the expanding role being played by the American woman in public affairs.

Prior to "Operation DISTAFF," over 50 per cent of the ladies of the Armed Forces in the Panama Area had completed the official 22-hour Red Cross First Aid Course. The accomplishment of the more difficult remaining half of the volunteer recruitment task is the principle aim of the DISTAFF Councils. In their first two weeks of operation, they have already accomplished over one-third of their ultimate goal. As the organization becomes more firmly established, new gains are expected.

Significant is the fact that the program is entirely voluntary, being based not on the use of command, compulsion, or coercion, but rather on a basic appeal to good citizenship in fulfilling vital community obligations.

In addition to Mrs. McBride, President, the other members of the Senior Council are: Mrs. Lester J. Whitlock, wife of Major General Whitlock, Commanding General, U. S. Army Caribbean; Mrs. Albert M. Bledsoe, wife of Rear Admiral Bledsoe, Commandant, 15th Naval District; Mrs. Emil C. Kiel, wife of Brigadier General Kiel, Commanding General, Caribbean Air Command; Mrs. Francis A. March, wife of Brigadier General March, III, Deputy Commander, U. S. Army Caribbean, and Mrs. H. B. Marshall, (Executive Secretary, Distaff Councils).

The members of the Senior Council for the Atlantic side are: Mrs. Henry F. Taylor, President, wife of Colonel Taylor, Commanding Officer, Fort Gulick; Mrs. Lyle L. Koepke, wife of Captain Koepke, Commanding Officer, Coco Solo Naval Station, and Mrs. Robert F. Alexander, wife of Colonel Alexander, Commanding Officer, Ft. Sherman.

Particular importance is placed on representation by all groups, including Officer and NCO wives and the Army, Navy and Air Force, and civilian employees of the military. With this in mind, a special advisory staff was formed, consisting of Mrs. Francis P. Kintz, wife of Colonel Kintz, Surgeon, U. S. Army Caribbean; Mrs. J. Schafer, Mrs. R. A. Holmes, Mrs. F. K. Fuller, and Mrs. H. J. Starrett.

Presidents of Disaster Control Zone Councils are: Mrs. S. F. Griswold—Amador; Mrs. K. O. Dicken—Quarry Heights; Mrs. C. E. Brooks—Albrook; Mrs. W. M. Kennedy—Curundu; Mrs. W. D. Correll—Corozal; Mrs. B. E. Cordell—Clayton; Mrs. E. F. Ryan—Rodman; Mrs. R. W. Scott—Kobbe; Mrs. L. L. Koepke—Coco Solo; Mrs. D. C. Harshaw—Culick; Mrs. R. V. Embury—Davis, and Mrs. R. F. Alexander—Sherman.

The need for all-out participation was confirmed in "Operation JACKPOT," a full-scale Panama Area-wide Disaster Control Field exercise, conducted in May. Over 1,700 ladies actually participated in field operations as First Aid and Disaster Control workers. This turnout, remarkable though it was, would not be sufficient in event of an actual atomic attack. "Operation DISTAFF" is a further step toward the full preparedness of the Panama Area in all aspects, through achieving all-out volunteer participation in Disaster Control measures.

Candidate Class Number 49 received commissions and the gold bars of second lieutenant at a graduation ceremony on 15 Aug.

Brig. Gen. George V. Keyser, Commanding General of Camp Carson, Colo., addressed the graduates and their guests. He was introduced by Maj. Gen. George D. Shea, Commandant of Ft. Riley.

Candidate Stanley F. Harms was named Honor Graduate of the class, and was presented a trophy, his diploma and insignia of rank by General Shea. The Military Stakes Trophy winner was Jack G. Crawford. This title and trophy go to the winner of a series of difficult field events conducted within each graduating class.

Asst. Sec'y Rosenberg Tells Good-Will Activities of Dependents in Europe

A report on how wives of U. S. military personnel are serving as good-will ambassadors overseas was made late last week by Assistant Secretary of Defense Anna M. Rosenberg.

Just returned from an inspection trip to Europe and the Mediterranean, Mrs. Rosenberg said that servicemen's wives and their husbands "are doing a wonderful job in the communities."

She told how Wives' Clubs have adopted orphanages and how members visit hospitals. While in Istanbul, Mrs. Rosenberg saw a group of youngsters from an orphanage taken aboard a U. S. Navy ship, where they were given ice cream and "hot dogs."

In Naples, she said, military personnel and their dependents are assisting a young priest who is giving occupational training to a group of orphans. "Our own people are contributing both money and time to those things and are bringing much better feelings," said the Assistant Secretary.

Mrs. Rosenberg acknowledged that because of the critical housing shortages, dependents often must face considerable difficulties, but she added that "if a man is over there for three years, he is entitled to a normal way of living, and he is entitled to have his family there."

In view of the attacks made on dependent travel abroad during the last session of Congress, Mrs. Rosenberg's observations are highly significant, for there is every likelihood that efforts may be made next year to curtail transportation of dependents.

Deputy Chief of Staff for Plans and Research. He replaces Lt. Gen. Charles L. Bolte, who was assigned as Commanding General, 7th U. S. Army in Europe. Lt. Gen. Lemnitzer has returned from Korea. General and Mrs. Lemnitzer will live in Quarters #4.

Rear Adm. Wesley McL. Hague, USN, is Commandant of the Industrial College of the Armed Forces, replacing Maj. Gen. Vanaman, USAF. Admiral Hague was Chief of Office of Industrial Relations USN. Admiral and Mrs.

Hague now live in Quarters #7.

Maj. Gen. Richard C. Partridge, USA replaces Lt. Gen. Alexander R. Bolling as Assistant Chief of Staff, G-2, Department of Army. General and Mrs. Partridge will live in Quarters #6.

Maj. Gen. George L. Eberle, USA, is the Deputy Commandant of the National War College. He has recently returned from FECOM. General and Mrs. Eberle live in Quarters #2.

Brig. Gen. Leonard J. Greeley, USA, is a Deputy Commandant of the Industrial College of the Armed Forces. Brig. Gen. Greeley was the Commanding General of the Chemical Corps Training Center at Fort McClellan, Ala. General and Mrs. Greeley live in Quarters #15.

New SEC Command

Command (the first joint exercise of these two grand units) will proceed exactly as scheduled, despite Moscow's uproar. As officially summarized this week by Admiral Sir Patrick Brind, Commander in Chief Allied Forces Northern Europe, who is to conduct the exercise, MAIN BRACE will be under joint overall command of Admiral Lynde D. McCormick, SACLANT, and General Ridgway, SACEUR. It will employ the forces of eight NATO nations (Belgium, Canada, Denmark, France, Netherlands, Norway, Britain and America) plus a cruiser of the New Zealand Navy. It is primarily an exercise of "Blue" maritime forces (sea and air) supporting land and air forces and covering sea communications, with "Orange" opposition. The schedule is as follows:

Part I—A carrier force sailing north from UK ports will conduct exercises west of Narvik, Norway.

Part II—The carrier force will move south for exercises in and near Denmark.

Part III—Convoys in and from Scandinavia will operate under sea and air protection.

Part IV—A strongly escorted force of U. S. Marines will sail from Britain for a landing in Jutland.

Part V—Protection of Danish shores and waters on the Baltic side will be provided by light forces from Britain and Norway and Denmark.

Commands under SACLANT will be as follows:

Admiral Sir George Creasy, CinC Eastern Atlantic—all sea forces.

Air Marshal Sir Alick Stevens, CinC Eastern Atlantic—all shore-based maritime aircraft.

Vice Adm. Felix Stump, USN, fleet commander at sea.

Rear Adm. J. F. H. Crombie, Flag Officer Scotland, commanding northern sub-area.

Rear Adm. G. W. G. Simpson, RN, commanding all submarines.

Air Vice Marshal H. Lydford, commanding shore-based maritime aircraft in North Sea, under CinC Air East Lant.

Commands under SACEUR will be:

Admiral Brind, over-all, who also specifically commands the naval forces. Lt. Gen. Robert K. Taylor (and later Maj. Gen. Warren R. Carter) the allied air forces in Norway and Denmark.

Lt. Gen. Wilhelm von Tange Hansteen, commanding allied land forces in Norway, plus Maj. Gen. A. Dahl, task force commander in Northern Norway.

Lt. Gen. E. Y. V. Moeller, Allied land forces in Denmark.

Vice-Adm. S. V. Storeheill and Lt. Gen. F. Lambrechts, the Allied naval and air commands in Norway, and Vice-Adm. A. H. Vedel and Lt. Gen. C. C. J. Foerslev, the corresponding commands in Denmark.

The exercise, as previously pointed out, is notable in several respects, first as the opening large maneuver of SACLANT forces, second as the opening collaboration of SACLANT and SACEUR in battle exercises, and third as a singularly realistic operation concerned with the defense of northern Europe and the channel.

party given by Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Paul M. Seleen at the general's home at Ft. Wayne 16 Aug.

Colonel Nicolls left for Ann Arbor, Mich., on 22 Aug. to attend the University of Michigan, where he is enrolled in the graduate school of chemical engineering. For the past two years, he has been stationed at Detroit Arsenal, as assistant to the chief of the engineering division.

On 17 Aug. Colonel and Mrs. Nicolls were also entertained at a dinner party given by Lt. Col. and Mrs. Thomas A. Rice at Ft. Wayne.

■ YOKOHAMA, JAPAN Lt. Col. Walter A. Bauer, rotating Stateside after two years' service as TIE officer of the Japan Logistical Command, was awarded a Bronze Star Medal on his last day of official duty here for outstanding service "which contributed materially to the efficiency and morale of United States troops in Korea and Japan." Maj. Gen. Walter L. Harrold, commander of the vast logistical command, decorated the colonel during a ceremony in JIC headquarters.

Raise Aid Society Funds

A total of $950 was raised by Mather, Calif AF Base Women's Club for the Air Force Aid Society's fund drive during a "West of the Pecos" night held recently.

All-western garb was the order of the evening with games, square dancing, western music and novelty song numbers providing entertainment for the many guests.

Mrs. Harley R. Hooper was chairman of the event. She was assisted by Mesdames Robert L. Logan, Howard L. Nicholls, Donald M. Thompson, Douglas S. Weart, Charles E. Evans, John L. Barber, John G. Rose and Alexander E. Satler.

"Exercise Test Drop"

The XVIII Airborne Corps and the Eighteenth Air Force will collaborate in a special field exercise involving airborne and troop carrier techniques, at Ft. Bragg, N. C., from August to December.

Arrangements for the exercise are being made under the direction of General John R. Hodge, Chief of Army Field Forces, and General John K. Cannon, Commanding General of the Tactical Air Command.

Called "Exercise Test Drop," the exercise will test airborne and troop carrier procedures, with particular emphasis on the use of heavy drop techniques and construction of landing strips. In addition, the exercise will provide training for Army and Air Force units in planning and executing airborne operations.

Maj. Gen. Thomas F. Hickey, Commanding General of the XVIII Airborne Corps, will command participating Army units.

Maj. Gen. Robert W. Douglass, Commanding General Eighteenth Air Force, will command Air Force units taking part in the exercise.

In the interest of economy, the heavy drop phases of the tests will be conducted on a regimental combat team level, but will be designed to develop training factors for an airborne division.

Obituaries

Lt. Gen. William N. Haskell

Lt. Gen. William N. Haskell, former commanding general of the New York National Guard and the 27th Infantry Division, died on 12 Aug. after a prolonged illness at a Greenwich, Conn., hospital.

General Haskell's military career started in 1897 on his entrance to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point. Following graduation from the Academy, he served in the Army until 1916, when he was appointed a colonel and assigned to command the 69th Infantry Regiment of the New York National Guard while it served on the Mexican border.

During World War I he reverted to Regular Army service and served with distinction in several important assignments, including the Chief of Operations Second Army, AEF.

He continued in Federal Service until 1926, when General Haskell was appointed a Major General, commanding the New York National Guard. In 1940 he again returned to Federal service as commanding general of the 27th Infantry Division upon its induction into active duty.

Because of age-in-grade provisions he was relieved as commanding general of the 27th Infantry Division, USA, on 21 Nov. 1941 after leading the division through a successful series of large-scale maneuvers in southern training areas of the United States.

On his relief from duty as Commanding General, 27th Infantry Division, USA, he was assigned to inspection of Army camps throughout the country and later was assigned to duty in Washington, D. C., as Executive Director, Army Emergency Relief. On 15 May 1942 General Haskell was granted leave of absence to accept position as Director, Civilian Protection, State of New York. He was released from United States Service 30 June 1942. In recognition of his outstanding service he was appointed Lieutenant General of the Line, New York National Guard, 12 Aug. 1942 and was placed on the Retired List 13 Aug. 1942.

The General is survived by his widow the former Winifred Farrell of Albany, and two sons, Col. John H. F. and Joseph F. Haskell, both of New York City, and one daughter, Mrs. Richard M. Egan, Greenwich, Conn.

Two of the nine surviving grandchildren are cadets John, Jr., and William N. Haskell of the U. S. Military Academy.

Funeral services were held at the Catholic Chapel at the U. S. Military Academy, 16 Aug. Burial was at West Point Cemetery.

Col. S. C. Huffman

Col. S. C. (Jiggs) Huffman, managing director of the Miami All-American Air Maneuvers from 1947 to 1950, died at Miami, Fla. on 6 August from a heart attack.

The former Ohioan who had been active in aviation since 1922, was 52 years old. He was chief pilot and operations manager when Paul Riddle, Miami airline operator, formed the Embury-Riddle Co. in Cincinnati in 1927. Huffman followed Riddle to Miami in 1933 to be his chief of operations.

Colonel Huffman directed Pan American World Airways air ferries in 1942, then headed Air Transport Command training at Miami for the Army and later became inspector of operations for ATC.

Air shows occupied most of his time after that until he became contracting administrator for Aerodex Corp. at Miami International Airport.

Colonel Huffman flew the first night fireworks exhibition in 1924, flew the first airmail out of Cincinnati in 1927 and established a world's endurance record for Class C airplanes in 1929, staying aloft 26 hours and 40 minutes.

Col. Frederick P. DeLemos, CE, USA

Col. Frederick P. DeLemos, CE, USA, 57, of El Cajon, Calif., died at the Ft. MacArthur Army Hospital 29 July of a heart attack suffered as he was reporting to headquarters of the Southern California Sub-District 6413 ASU following a tour of service in Korea.

Colonel DeLemos, a veteran of World War I, World War II, and the Korean campaign, had 35 years' service. He returned to active duty with the United States Army in 1941 and has served continuously since that time.

Formerly of Youngstown, Ohio, Colonel DeLemos had been chief engineer of the Automatic Sprinkler Corporation in civilian life.

He leaves his widow, Elaine; one daughter, Mrs. Constance Ryan of Concord, Calif.;

two sons, Lt. F. P. DeLemos, Jr., USAF, and A/IC James Hanna, USAF; and three grandchildren.

Interment was on 1 Aug. at Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno, Calif.

Maj. Robert Pepin Jones, Jr., USAR

Maj. Robert Pepin Jones, Jr., USAR, was killed accidentally on 20 July by a short-circuit, while working with electrical equipment at his home in Cleveland, Ohio.

Major Jones was graduated from Duke University. During World War II he served at Ft. Monroe, Va., as a member of the 2d Coast Artillery. At the time of his death, he was an administrative assistant with the Cleveland Clinic.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Eleanor Phillips Jones of 23950 Frank St., Fairview Park, Ohio; two children, Robert P Jones III and Carolyn Jones; and by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Jones, sr., of 7216 Radnor Rd., Bethesda, Md.

His widow, the former Eleanor Phillips, is the daughter of Col. and Mrs. Wilmer Stanley Phillips.

Interment was at Arlington National Cemetery on 25 July.

Mrs. Eunice G. Noyes

Mrs. Eunice Gertrude Noyes, wife of Col. John R. Noyes TC, USA, and mother of two sons, John Zabriskie Noyes and Daniel Hayes Noyes, died at St. Albans Naval Hospital, Long Island, N. Y., on 7 August 1952 at the age of 54. In addition to her immediate family, she is survived by her brother, Col. Don Z. Zimmerman, USAF, now in Tokyo, Japan, and by two sisters.

Mrs. Noyes, a native of Oregon, graduated from the University of Oregon in 1922 and went to Alaska, where she married Colonel (then lieutenant) Noyes in Juneau in 1928. She was with Colonel Noyes during tours of Army duty in Alaska, Delaware, Seattle, Washington, New Mexico, Washington, D. C., Mobile, Alabama, and elsewhere; their last station was in New York City where Colonel Noyes is now on duty with the New York Port of Embarkation.

Mrs. Noyes was a practicing artist throughout her active life. She worked in the fields of sculpture, water color painting, and oil painting, as well as in various handicrafts. She studied art in college, and later at the Art Students' League of New York, of which she was a member. She is mourned by a wide circle of Army friends and by many friends in art circles. Interment was at Kenwood Station, Onelda, New York.

Decorate 13 Marines

Thirteen Marine veterans of the Korean war were decorated by General Lemuel C. Shepherd, Jr., Commandant of the Marine Corps, during a Sunset Parade at the Marine Barracks in Washington, D. C., 22 Aug.

Two Silver Star Medals, four Distinguished Flying Crosses, three Bronze Star Medals, four Air Medals and four Letter of Commendation Ribbons were presented.

Maj. Samuel Jaskilka of the Detail Branch, Marine Corps Headquarters, received his second Silver Star Medal. The award is for gallantry in action during the Chosin reservoir fighting of November and December, 1950, when despite sub-zero temperatures, fierce enemy fire and Chinese numerical superiority, he led his company in repulsing endless assaults and killing hundreds of the enemy. The major resides at 901 South Oak Street, Arlington, Va., with his wife, Norma, and children, Mike, 6, and Diane, 20 months.

Sgt. Halsey W. Smith, Jr., a Marine Reservist, was presented the Silver Star Medal for gallantry in action against the enemy in Korea in April, 1952. While on a patrol deep in enemy territory, Sergeant Smith took command when the patrol leader was wounded during an enemy attack. Although wounded himself, he repeatedly led attacks against the enemy emplacements with complete disregard for his own safety.

Maj. Clarence L. Zeiger, Jr., of the Bureau of Ships, Navy Department, was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for defying the enemy's intense and accurate anti-aircraft fire to lead an attack on enemy positions in December, 1951. The major and his wife, Carol, live at 1411 North Rolfe Street, Arlington, Va.

Maj. William G. Dair, Jr. of the Munitions Board, Department of Defense, received the Distinguished Flying Cross for disregarding darkness, poor visibility, rugged terrain, and enemy fire to attack enemy trucks near Hwangju in September, 1951. He resides with his wife, Jean, and children, Glenn, 4, and Patricia, 1, at 2007 Griffith Road, Falls Church, Va.

Maj. Robert P. Mosca, Jr. of the Bureau of Aeronautics, Navy Department, was awarded his second and third Distinguished Flying Crosses and fourth Air Medal for heroism in aerial flights for the First Marine Aircraft Wing in Korea between November, 1951 and January, 1952. He resides with his wife, Betty Jean, and children, Nancy, 4, and Herbert P. III, 3, at 1700 Lee Boulevard, Falls Church, Va.

Col. Russell N. Jordahl of the Personnel Department, Marine Corps Headquarters was awarded the Bronze Star Medal with Combat "V" for meritorious achievement as commander of a First Marine Division combat service group in Korea from September, 1951 to June, 1952. He resides at 4203 Woodberry Street, University Park, Hyattsville, Md., with his wife, Edith, and daughter, Marcia, 20. A son, Richard, 25, is a sergeant in the Air Force.

Maj. Ralph C. Rosacker of the G-3 Staff, Marine Corps Headquarters, received his third Bronze Star Medal with Combat "V" for meritorious achievement as operations officer of a Marine infantry regiment in Korea from July, 1951, to March, 1952. He resides with his wife, Martha, and sons, James, 5, Ralph, 4, and David, 1, at 416 Meadow Lane, Falls Church, Va.

Maj. Anthony J. Roscoe of the Naval Receiving Station, Anacostia, D. C., was awarded the Bronze Star Medal for Meritorious service as engineering officer of the First Marine Aircraft Wing's headquarters squadron from June, 1951 to February, 1952. The major, his wife, Ann, and daughters, Patricia, 7, and Kathleen, 4, reside at 427 Chaplin Street, S.E., Washington, D. C.

Lt. Col. Robert R. Davis of the Division of Aviation, Headquarters Marine Corps, received his sixth, seventh and eighth Air Medals, for meritorious acts while completing 60 missions for the First Marine Aircraft Wing in Korea between June and November, 1951. He lives at 1555 North Bryan Street, Arlington, Va.

Lt. Col. Rodney M. Handley of the Supply Department, Marine Corps Headquarters, was awarded his second Letter of Commendation Ribbon with Combat "V" for excellent service from July, 1951 to March, 1952 as assistant supply officer of the First Marine Division in Korea. He resides with his wife, (Please turn to Back Page)

Air Mfg. Profits Lag

Airframe manufacturers under the nation's defense buildup have boomed their sales, but profits to the companies have slumped considerably, according to a survey recently completed by the Aircraft Industries Association.

A checkup of 12 major airframe manufacturers shows an increase in total sales of 42.6% during the "boom" year of 1951 over 1950. But net profits after taxes sank to approximately 50% of the 1950 figure.

Further pointing up the low rate of return in the hastily mobilized airframe production industry, the survey reveals that the 12 companies realized an average $1.60 profit for each $100 of sales in 1951. This compares with a $6.20 profit on sales shown by a survey of 1,763 leading corporations, recently completed by the National City Bank of New York for the year 1951.

The AIA report discloses that the companies' net earnings after taxes in 1951 sank to a low of $30.9 million, far under the $62.6 million earned in 1950 before the impact of Korean War defense spending was felt. Federal taxes amounted to $68 million, and absorbed 69% of income before taxes.

Summarizing the 1951 financial picture, the AIA report said the year showed "increased sales, higher taxes and drastically reduced profits."

The pouring of dollars into inventory plus the dollar drain necessitated by expansion of plant properties and machinery has forced airframe manufacturers to establish extensive lines of bank credit, the AIA report says. "Additional borrowing may be necessary until this expanded production effort reaches the delivery stage," it added.

Further, the report carried this warning of financial risk undertaken by the manufacturers in the defense buildup:

"The financial strain of carrying these expanded inventories could become even more acute if aircraft delivery schedules were again extended or 'stretched out'. This would be a particularly serious problem from the standpoint of the myriad subcontractors and small suppliers presently supporting the aircraft production program."

Heavy production requirements during 1951 made it necessary for the 12 companies to add $41.6 million in plant facilities—the largest increase since 1941 in company-owned facilities. The AIA survey reports that this added investment may "involve a considerable financial risk to the individual companies if the need for these facilities does not continue for a five-year or longer period."

Expansion in 1951 was financed for the most part by $15.1 million in long-term borrowing, $5.3 million in retained earnings, a $13.2 million decrease in net working capital, and $4.3 million in additional capital stock.

New Hangar at MCAS

Planned construction of an aircraft maintenance hangar at the Marine Corps Air Station, Cherry Point, N. C., has been announced by the Sixth Naval District Public Works Officer.

The 481 by 261 foot hangar, to be located on a new parking apron behind the large warehouse now under construction on the station, will be of steel or concrete type. The maintenance hangar will consist of three main units: two hangar areas separated by a workstop. There will be a two-story lean-to at one side of each hangar area.

Sealed bids for the construction are being received until 2 p. m. (EST), 11 Sept. by the Sixth Naval District Public Works Officer, Naval Base, Charleston, S. C.

Build F3H's for Navy

The U. S. Navy has awarded a prime contract to TEMCO Aircraft Corp., Dallas, Tex., for the construction of an undisclosed number of McDonnell F3H Demon, single-jet, carrier-based fighters. TEMCO has signed a licensing agreement with McDonnell Aircraft Corp.

The Navy awarded a prime contract to McDonnell in March 1951, five months before the first flight of the XF3H.

Public Peep At New Jeep

A new model jeep with greater cruising range, more power, improved ease of maintenance and other advantages over its predecessor was demonstrated by the Army Ordnance Corps at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., on 21 Aug.

The exhibition was the first public display of the vehicle which is being produced by Willys-Overland Motors, Inc., under a contract of almost $200,000,000. The first production models were delivered to the Ordnance Corps last June and have since been subjected to exhaustive tests at Aberdeen.

The new version of the jeep is featured by a 72-horsepower, F-head engine which gives 20 per cent more power than present models on 25 per cent less gasoline. Cruising range has been increased from 180 miles to 300 miles, without refueling, by the installation of this engine and a larger gas tank.

The body of the vehicle is longer and wider and the hood higher, the latter change making the engine compartment more accessible for repair work.

It also contains a splash-proof ignition system permitting the jeep to ford shallow streams. It can be converted for deep-water fording with the installation of a "snorkel kit."

In earlier tests of its increased power, the vehicle carried two men and an 850 pound load up a 60 per cent slope, from a standing start, and reached the crest of the hill travelling at about 10 miles per hour.

Streamline Purchases

Department of Defense officials are preparing to release new regulations which will streamline military procurement procedures and which are expected to result in greater unification in defense buying.

Concurrently, the Bonner Subcommittee of the House Expenditures Committee this week released more than 1500 pages of hearings on Federal Supply Management.

Chairman Herbert C. Bonner (D-N.C.) said that in many areas of the world where hearings were held, responsible field officers advocate greater unification.

He said the report shows that "the Air Force has been establishing its own common supply and other service systems throughout the world, duplicating the Army and Navy systems though the Secretary of Defense had issued regulations to the contrary."

It is recalled that during debate on the 1953 appropriations bill, much discussion developed concerning allegations of duplication in military procurement.

This week, following a visit to Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio, Air Force procurement center and headquarters of the Air Materiel Command, Chairman Bonner had high praise for Air Force supply policies there.

"What we found should please the taxpayer," he said. A member of the Bonner Subcommittee, Representative Charles B. Brownson (R-Ind.), added: "I feel more assured about the future of the Air Force at Wright-Patterson than at the Pentagon. It's been easier to get information here than in Washington."

"I like their slogan here, this idea of 'more Air Force for the dollar' rather than 'more dollars for the Air Force,'" said Congressman Brownson.

Representative Bonner related that his group had "some strong criticisms of Air Force plans to break away and set up their own complete and independent supply systems. Now, I feel the Air Force has come around to the position this committee originally took when it began its studies."

Col. Kelly to Far East

Col. Sidney M. Kelly, USMC, who has served as Commanding Officer of the U. S. Marine Barracks at the Naval Academy for the past three years, has been detached and ordered to report to the Commanding General, Department of the Pacific, Marine Corps for further assignment to the Far East. He was relieved by Lt. Col. William M. Gilliam, USMC.

Fiscal Year Summary

During fiscal year 1952 (July 1951-June 1952), the Department of Defense obligated $44.9 billion for the procurement of major equipment supplies, military construction and expansion of military production facilities. Of this, the Army has obligated $16.4 billion, the Navy $11.6 billion, and the Air Force $16.9 billion.

These obligations reflect orders placed during the fiscal year 1952 and include both contracts with private industry and project orders placed with Department of Defense industrial establishments such as shipyards and arsenals.

Obligations for procurement of "hard goods" (aircraft, ships, tanks, weapons, ammunition, production equipment, electronics and other equipment) amounted to $38.0 billion, with "soft goods" procurement obligations (clothing, subsistence, and petroleum) aggregating $4.2 billion, and construction $2.7 billion. Procurement for the Mutual Security Assistance Program accounts for $5.1 billion of the $38.0 billion obligated for "hard goods."

Total Department of Defense obligations for the fiscal year 1952, including military pay and allowances, research and development and other activities, as well as procurement and construction funds, were approximately $61.9 billion.

As of 30 June 1952, a total of $7.9 billion had not been obligated. Of this total, approximately $7.5 billion will be available for obligation in fiscal year 1953, while the balance of about $0.4 billion will expire.

Military assistance funds are appropriated to the President and allocated to the Department of Defense. As of 30 June 1952, a total of $5.2 billion had been allocated to the Department of Defense for military assistance in fiscal year 1952.

Including the $5.2 billion military assistance allocation, funds available for obligation during fiscal year 1952 amounted to $69.8 billion, of which $4.2 billion represents carry-over of unobligated balances from fiscal year 1951, and $65.6 billion are new funds made available in fiscal year 1952. Procurement and construction funds account for $51.6 billion of this total, with $41.7 billion for "hard goods," $4.2 billion for "soft goods," and $5.7 billion for construction.

During the 24 month period following the attack on Korea a total of $119.7 billion in obligational authority has been made available to the Department of Defense. Procurement and construction funds account for $87.3 billion of this total, with $71.5 billion available for procurement of "hard goods," $8.3 billion for "soft goods," and $7.5 billion for construction.

The Department of Defense obligated a total of $111.5 billion during this twenty-four month period, of which $80.5 billion was for procurement and construction, with $67.8 billion for "hard goods" procurement, $8.2 billion for "soft goods," and $4.5 billion for construction. The Army has accounted for procurement and construction obligations of $30.2 billion during this period, compared to $20.1 billion for the Navy, and $30.2 billion for the Air Force.

Procurement Course

The Navy will give approximately 200 of its procurement personnel intensive three-week negotiators training courses this fall, Vice Adm. C. W. Fox, Chief of Naval Material, has announced.

Objective of the courses is to improve naval procurement by training negotiators from the various Navy procurement activities in the broader aspects of pricing. Subjects to be stressed are price, cost and profit analysis, and selection and use of appropriate methods of pricing. The first course tentatively is scheduled to start the last week of November.

The courses are being inaugurated, said Admiral Fox, because surveys show refresher courses for negotiators will permit them to use the latest information in pricing and other specific fields of negotiation to the benefit of the government.

Engineer Procurement Changes

Three changes in the organization of the Corps of Engineers for purchasing certain military supplies were announced this week by Lt. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, Chief of Engineers.

The changes, effective 1 Oct. 1952, are:

The St. Louis, Mo., District will be established as a lumber procurement office and discontinued as a procurement office for major end items of construction materials.

The Chicago, Ill., Procurement Office will be discontinued as a lumber procurement office and, in addition to already assigned responsibilities for construction equipment procurement, will procure asphalt, cement, roofing, and building fixtures.

The Pittsburgh, Pa., District will, in addition to existing duties, assume responsibility for procurement of the following major end items formerly assigned to the St. Louis District: structural steel beams, metal bars, plates and shapes, pipe, barbed wire and tubing.

Graduate Petroleum School

The Quartermaster Petroleum School, Jersey City, N. J., will hold graduation exercises 29 Aug. for 12 officers and 56 enlisted men, who will complete a 21-weeks course.

Brig. Gen. I. K. Evans, Assistant for Operations, Office of the Quartermaster General, will be the principal speaker at the graduation exercises and will present the Certificates of Completion. Chaplain (Col.) E. R. Martin will participate in exercises.

The graduating officers, stated Capt. Thornton M. Milton, Officer-in-Charge of the Quartermaster Petroleum School, are prepared to assume responsibility for a mobile or base laboratory and have been assigned to Army and Air Force installations throughout the world. Two of the student officers, Colonel Chao, Ching-Ming, and Major Tsai, Hung-Tong, are from the Chinese Nationalist Army in Formosa. A number of enlisted men, trained as laboratory technicians, will remain at the Field Office and School, the remaining ones being assigned to laboratory units throughout the world.

Colonel Metcalf pointed out that the New York QMC Petroleum Field Office is responsible for the inspection and testing of petroleum products; storage and distribution of petroleum laboratory equipment; training of petroleum specialists and petroleum research and development activities.

Among the military and petroleum industry officials scheduled to attend the graduation exercises are: Lt. Col. J. W. Bauer, Bayway Refinery, Bayway, N. J.; Capt. J. W. Boundy, USN, U. S. Naval Supply Depot, Bayonne, N. J.; Mr. J. H. Brown, Tidewater Associated Oil Co.; Mr. W. C. Colby, Standard Oil Company (N. J.); Mr. A. H. Crowell, Gulf Oil Corp.; Mr. T. David, Cities Service Oil Co.; Brig. Gen. DeWitt, Commanding General, New York Port of Embarkation, Brooklyn Army Base; Mr. W. H. Franklin, Tankport Terminals Inc.; Mr. G. W. Gates, Rheem Mfg. Co.; Mr. John Green, California Oil Co.; Mr. Robert E. Holeten, E. I. duPont Co., Inc.; Capt. William McK. Landau, USN, Navy Purchasing Office, New York; Lt. Col. R. M. Munger, New York Port of Embarkation; Lt. Col. Gerald S. Nash, New York Quartermaster Procurement Agency; Mr. John J. Nichols, E. I. duPont Co., Inc.; Col. A. L. Parmelee, Commanding Officer, Ft. Wadsworth; Mr. C. H. Phillips, Shell Oil Co.; Mr. W. Trelease, Ethyl Corp.; Lt. Col. R. F. Whitcomb, Ft. Wadsworth.

Fiat To Make Engine Parts

The Fiat Company of Modena, Italy, has been licensed to manufacture spare engine parts for Allison J35-A-29 engines in Republic F-84G Thunderjets sold to USAF and NATO countries, it is announced by R. C. Golt, Sales Manager, Aircraft Engines Operations, Allison Division of General Motors Corporation.

The license agreement was negotiated by representatives of the Air Force, Fiat and Allison. Fiat is a manufacturer of Italian motor cars and various other types of equipment.

Hospital Dietetic Interns

Twenty young women graduate home economists from 16 colleges and universities have been selected by the Army Medical Service for 1952-53 dietetic internships at Walter Reed Army Hospital, Washington, D. C. and Brooke Army Hospital, Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., beginning 12 Oct.

Already sworn in as Second Lieutenants of the Women's Medical Specialist Corps Reserve, the interns will report to the Medical Field Service School at Ft. Sam Houston 10 Sept. for a four-week course on the facilities, services and administration of the Army Medical Service. The course is known as the Medical Service Women Company Officers Course.

During the 12-month internship that follows, the interns will receive both classroom and on-the-job training regarding the administrative and therapeutic services of a modern Army hospital. Training in the administrative field will include menu planning, requisitioning and receiving supplies, supervision of food preparation for patient and hospital personnel, cost accounting, personnel management, maintenance of records, equipment management, teaching and supervision of personnel, and sanitation as applied to food service.

Therapeutic service training will include the planning and preparation supervision of modified diets both in the wards and in the special diet cafeteria, instruction of outpatients and patients being discharged from hospital as to their dietary requirements, menu planning and food service for juvenile patients and participation in ward rounds with the physicians and nurses.

At the completion of their internships, the young women officers will be fully qualified Army dietitians, ready to assume responsible positions and eligible for membership in the American Dietetic Association. They may apply for a Regular Army commission in the Women's Medical Specialist Corps and will be required to complete two years of active Army service which includes the time

Army Promotions

one National Guard captain who were promoted.

The cut-off date for the promotions to major was 6 Aug. 1946, which compares with a cut-off date of 21 June 1946 used for the 198 previous promotions to major, reported in the 9 Aug. issue of THE JOURNAL. In July, the cut-off date for promotions to major was 23 May 1946.

The 185 promotions to temporary captain, reported in Special Orders No. 166, with rank from 18 Aug., include 19 Regular, 163 Reserve and three National Guard officers.

The cut-off date for promotions to captain was 13 Oct. 1947, which compares with a date of 4 Sept. 1947 reported in the 9 Aug. issue when there were 200 first lieutenants promoted.

In July, the cut-off date for promotions to captain was 3 Aug. 1947.

Army officials have said that as vacancies and budget authorizations permit, additional temporary promotions will be announced at frequent intervals—usually every week—from long-pending recommended lists.

War In Korea

approaches, and captured an enemy junk.

On Sunday, before the typhoon struck, British flyers from the Light Carrier Ocean put a transformer station out of commission at the tip of the Ongjin peninsula on the west coast. They also rocketed the mouths of caves concealing enemy coastal guns. A rail bridge north of Cinnampo was destroyed and nine sampans were sunk. A radar station, a command post, a ferry boat, storage dumps, and several barracks were also damaged by the carrier-based British planes.

In a series of devastating raids warplanes of the Far East Air Force this week struck a munitions factory deep in North Korea, a supply and troop concentration center on the west coast, 25 miles northwest of the capital city of Pyongyang, supply and industrial areas in Pyongyang and a large cement plant at Osu, 50 miles south of Pyongyang.

Using recently-improved electronic aiming devices 25 B-29 Superforts raided the big Nakwon munitions factory near Sinuiju, only three miles from the Yalu River boundary of North Korea. Intense flak was encountered, and there was some enemy night fighter opposition, but none of the bombers was hit. While damage has not been completely assessed there were indications of widespread destruction.

Approximately 200 Air Force and Navy planes participated in a big daylight attack on a Communist supply and troop billeting area at Namyang, on the North Korean west coast, about 25 miles northwest of the Red capital city of Pyongyang. Navy planes from American carriers off the west coast hit the target first, and were followed by Fifth Air Force fighter-bombers. Preliminary reports indicated that at least 58 buildings and a number of ammunition dumps were destroyed. Simultaneously U. S. Marine Corsairs and Panther jets hit another supply center farther north on the west coast near Haeju, demolishing 15 buildings.

Thirty-eight United States B-29 medium bombers based in Okinawa dropped 350 tons of high explosives in a four-hour night attack on troop, supply and industrial areas in various sections of Pyongyang. Huge fires were left burning in opposite ends of the city. All 38 planes returned safely, despite heavy Red anti-aircraft fire, and enemy fighter opposition.

At Osu, 50 miles south of Pyongyang more than 100 Allied B-26 light bombers and fighter-bombers joined in a daylight attack on a huge cement plant, where concrete was being made for enemy military installations. Returning pilots reported that 63 buildings had been destroyed and 29 others damaged.

In smaller raids B-29 Superforts hit the marshalling yards at Chinnampo on the west coast, a steel plant used for storage at Kyomipo, and military targets at Sogwan on the west coast, and attacked advance supply and assembly areas near the front lines.

Close air support for Allied ground troops was provided by F-51 Mustangs, F-84 Thunder Jets, and Marine fighter-bombers in the western sector, and farther east in the Kumwha and Punch Bowl areas. Northwest of Pyongyang F-80 Shooting Stars bombed and strafed a supply area. On the west coast B-26 light bombers attacked a troop and supply center east of Ongjin, starting fires and setting off large secondary explosions.

Relatively few enemy planes were encountered during the week. Most of those sighted failed to challenge American F-86 Sabre Jets on patrol, or flying cover for raiding fighter-bombers. In one encounter two enemy MIGs in a flight of five near Sinuiju in extreme Northwest Korea were damaged.

In a summary of operations for the week ending 15 August the Far East Air Force announced that during that week its planes flew 6,255 effective sorties, and shot down one enemy plane, and probably destroyed two others. No Allied plane was lost in air combat during last week, but one RF-51 was lost to enemy ground fire, and one B-26 and one F-84 were lost to unknown causes. In addition one AD-2 and one RF-80 were lost in a mid-air collision.

During the week planes of the Far East Air Force and attached units destroyed or damaged 425 bunkers, 265 gun positions, one command post, 62 supply dumps and shelters, 940 buildings, one ammunition dump, 25 vehicles, 15 rail cars, one locomotive and two radio stations. In addition 400 troop casualties were inflicted, and 70 rail and road cuts were made.

Enemy aircraft losses since the start of the war are now estimated at 552 destroyed, 143 probably destroyed, and 614 damaged, for a total of 1,309. Far East Air Force plane losses now total 747.

The Defense Department this week announced that American battle casualties from the start of the Korean war to include notifications to next of kin through 15 August total 115,373, an increase of 688 since last week's report. Of this total 20,286 were killed in action or died of wounds; 84,569 were wounded in action, including 1,899 who later died; and 12,619 are carried as missing in action, including 202 who died, 1,385 who returned to military control, and 1,610 captured by the enemy, leaving 9,422 currently missing.

Of the total casualties 92,789 were sustained by the Army, 1,483 by the Navy, 19,859 by the Marine Corps and 1,242 by the Air Force.

Capt. Millet Named Aide

Capt. Lewis L. Millet, winner of the Medal of Honor, has been assigned to duty at Ft. Monroe, Va., to serve as an aide-de-camp to General John R. Hodge, Chief of Army Field Forces.

Captain Millet was awarded the Medal of Honor for gallantry in action while leading his company in a bayonet charge against a strongly-held hill near Suwon, Korea, in February of 1951. After the hill was secured 47 enemy dead were counted on the forward slope, 30 of whom had met death from bayonets. On the reverse slope 50 enemy dead were counted who had been killed either by bayonet or gunshot wounds.

During World War II Captain Millet served with both the Canadian and United States armies. He received a battlefield commission as a second lieutenant in November 1944.

In addition to the Medal of Honor Captain Millet wears the Silver Star, the Bronze Star with oak-leaf cluster, the Purple Heart with three oak-leaf clusters, the Air Medal with oak-leaf cluster, the Combat Infantryman's Badge, the French Croix de Guerre, and the American and Canadian service medals.

Helen and children, Rodney, 7, Randolph, 4, and Marianne, 2, at 200 Lee St., Falls Church, Va.

Maj. Robert E. Kelly of the Bureau of Aeronautics, Navy Department, received the Letter of Commendation Ribbon with Combat "V" for excellent service as a helicopter pilot on September 27, 1951, during the Punch Bowl fighting, when he participated in the first night helicopter airlift of troops in combat. He resides with his wife, Jeanne, and sons, William, 3, and Robert E., jr., 1, at 6604 Exeter Road, Bethesda, Md.

Maj. John E. Finnigan of the Personnel Department, Marine Corps Headquarters, was awarded the Letter of Commendation Ribbon with Combat "V" for excellent service from July to December, 1951 as Assistant Personnel Officer of Marine Aircraft Group 33 in Korea. He resides with his wife, Marilyn, and sons, John E., jr., 7, and Joseph M., 6, at 6600 16th Street North, Falls Church, Va.

S/Sgt. Walter J. Henderson of the Marine Barracks, Washington, received the Letter of Commendation Ribbon with Combat "V" for outstanding services from September to December, 1951, as a combat correspondent attached to front line infantry units in Korea. He is the son of Mrs. Mae L. Thurman, of Finley, Calif.

X Corps Quartermaster

Col. Hawthorne Davis has been named X Corps Quartermaster in Korea. He replaces Col. Robert L. Hill. The new Quartermaster was post quartermaster at Ft. Dix, N. J. before coming to Korea.

WIRE LOSES WEIGHT

The Army Signal Corps has taken a load off its wiremen's backs with development of a new type field wire which weighs only 46 pounds per mile, compared with the 140-pound weight of standard field wire used in World War II.
